2nd Smith product?

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

A second product at the A.O. Smith Corporation plant in Granite City is a good possibility, the Press-Record was told Tuesday.

Jack M. Birchhill, vice president of corporate communication, said discussion of a second product line is in progress but that it has not yet reached a stage where definite plans can be announced.

The closed A.O. Smith plant once produced millions of frames for automobiles.

IT IS BEING converted to a fully-operational manufacturing facility, scheduled to go into regular production in 1985.

The first new product that will be made in Granite City is a front-structured assembly for a new front-wheel-drive Ford passenger car.

Pilot production will begin here in late 1984, with full production under way by mid-1985, Birchhill said.

When the local plant is fully operational, 300 to 400 people will be employed in producing front assemblies. Specific start-up plans have not yet been completed.

Stanley F. Lindquist, 53, appointed as Granite City plant manager in December 1983, has just been named also as vice president of Granite City operations for the A.O. Smith Automotive Products Company.

THE NEW APPOINTMENT was announced this week by Paul J. Kemp, company president and a former A.O. Smith Granite City plant manager.

"This appointment (vice president of Granite City operations) is in keeping with a major restructuring within the A.O. Smith Corp. in which its operating units have been identified as separate companies," Birchhill commented.

Lindquist will oversee the conversion of the Granite City plant. He joined A.O. Smith as a co-op student in 1951 and held a variety of engineering, manufacturing and quality assurance positions. He earned a mechanical engineering degree at Marquette University in 1953.

LINDQUIST SERVED as quality manager for A.O. Smith's Automotive Division for ten years prior to becoming manager of the Milan, Tenn., plant in 1979 and Granite City plant manager in December. There also is a major automotive products plant in Milwaukee, Wis.

The division was known for many years as the nation's leading producer of auto and truck frames. Design changes in recent years have placed less emphasis on use of full frames.

The A.O. Smith Automotive Products Co. today is known as one of the largest manufacturers of automotive structures in America. It had sales in 1983 of more than $500 million.

A.O. Smith Corp. was founded in Milwaukee in 1874 and has been operating at its current location there since the early 1900s. Part of its Milwaukee plant has been designated as a national historic mechanical engineering landmark.

Steel assessment cut $3½ million

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

A reduction of $3,588,110 or about seven percent in Granite City Steel's assessment was ordered Tuesday in a unanimous ruling by the Madison County Board of Review.

If there is an appeal to the Illinois Property Tax Appeals Board, it must be filed within 30 days of the taxpayer's receipt of notification of the decision.

In a complaint filed Jan. 3, representatives of the steelmaking plant requested a real estate assessment cut of 82 percent.

At the review board's hearing on the complaint Feb. 2, GC Steel proposed a 20 percent reduction.

AN APPARENT verbal agreement had been reached in compromise talks between Granite City Assessor Von Dee Cruse and a financial officer of the plant Jan. 6.

The settlement was disclosed to taxing body officials Jan. 9 at Edwardsville by Cruse, County Assessment Supervisor James Barton and Robert Harris, chairman of the Board of Review.

Public officials at the Jan. 9 session voiced praise for GC Steel's

"constructive attitude and flexible approach" on assessment matters.

Referring to the compromise, Harris told the Press-Record yesterday, "We granted them the full

Smaller merger challenged National Steel in transition

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

With the boards of National Intergroup Inc. and U.S. Steel having agreed to transfer National Steel (including Granite City Steel) from NII to U.S. Steel, both corporations are moving toward major restructuring of their goals.

But a potential obstacle developed Wednesday when the U.S. Justice Department said it will challenge the pending merger of Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin (LTV Corp.) as anti-competitive.

THE U.S.-NATIONAL merger involves even bigger steel volume than does Republic-LTV.

Assistant Attorney General J. Paul McGrath said he fears future joint decisions by domestic steel firms to increase prices. Agreeing to delay their merger, LTV and Republic voiced surprise and disappointment at McGrath's decision.

An analyst said of steelmakers in general, "If they cannot merge, they cannot afford to modernize and survive." NII and U.S. Steel had no comment.

Losing three-fourths of its revenue sources in its proposed transaction—still subject to antitrust, union and NII shareholder approval—National Intergroup may pursue major expansions or acquisitions to fortify

Discuss 'windfall'

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

William R. Haine, Madison County Board member, presented a plan to the board yesterday that could mean up to $1 million in street repairs for the county, including roads in the Quad-City area. Under the program, the county would provide 80 percent of the costs of repair, with the individual municipalities putting up 20 percent.

The "windfall" came to the county through the transit authority. Under the Reagan administration, more federal money was appropriated for transportation and, as a result, the county lowered its percentage of funding to transportation, leaving it with a surplus of $1 million.

HAINES SAID the county had considered lowering the one-quarter percent transit sales tax, but that several merchants had been against the move, saying they wanted to keep uniformity in the taxes in Madison County and St. Clair County.

Haine said he felt a program to repave roads in Madison County would be the best way to "give back" the windfall money to the taxpayers. "Most taxpayers in the county own a car and those who don't ride the bus," he said. "I also think this is a good plan because I gather that the cities and villages in Madison County need money for these types of improvements."

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith said, however, that he has some "serious reservations" about the plan. He said the law has some gray areas regarding powers of local governments and that using the money for street repairs might go "either way" if it was tested in court.

Smith suggested that the board wait for approval from the Illinois attorney general before proceeding with the measure.

THE BOARD agreed to wait until the meeting next month before acting on the proposal.

Toll-free line to deputies

A toll-free telephone number from Chouteau Township installed directly to the Madison County Sheriff's office was installed Wednesday and is ready for use, according to a township official.

Chouteau residents with a 931- or 797- prefix are entitled to use the toll-free number, 931-0066, when calling the sheriff's office.

The new telephone service was installed for the benefit of residents who may have reason to call for assistance of the sheriff's department and will no longer have to pay the toll charge.

Preachers have message: consumers have rights

Two black ministers — one the local president of the NAACP and the other president of the Venice Park Board — have joined forces to tell residents how they can cope with their heating bills.

The Rev. Harold Wilson Sr., last year elected president of the Madison Branch of the National Association of the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), wants the civil rights of the utility customer protected.

TO REACH his goal, he is forming a Venice Utility Consumer Board, which will spearhead workshops to inform residents about their rights as utility customers and to be a vocal presence at public hearings on rate hikes.

The Rev. John Henry Williams, park president, will serve as vice chairman of the new board. Both ministers became involved in the consumer issue after hearing residents discuss bill-paying problems after church services and NAACP meetings. Others telephoned the ministers directly with their worries.

"Especially this month, the bills are so high, it's unbearable to some," Wilson said. "The gist of it is everybody is wondering how they are going to make it...but we found out we have certain rights and we're concerned no one's civil rights be violated."

CARL E. MATHIAS, service area manager of Illinois Power Co., said the number of households experiencing difficulties managing their heating and electrical costs appears to be about the same as last year.

The size of back payments owed, however, has increased due to the higher bills caused by the cold

Percy, Corcoran in close race

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Chief opponents in the Republican U.S. Senate primary March 20 are incumbent Sen. Charles H. "Chuck" Percy, on the left in the photographs and in his outlook, and Congressman Thomas Corcoran, on the right.

Sen. Percy, who is favored, has many local friends and has sought to identify himself with efforts to solve Quad-City area problems, such as the 19th Street overpass construction project six years ago.

He told voters statewide in 1978 that he had "gotten the message" and would pay close attention to the needs of hard-pressed communities and citizens.

The senator prefers to be thought of as moderate or middle-of-the-road in his thinking, while Corcoran happily accepts being described as a staunch conservative.

Percy heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and, some of the time, backs the Reagan administration's foreign policy initiatives. His primary election foe derides the senator's "embarrassing liberalism" and Percy's clashes with the administration.

Republicans, including Pres. Ronald Reagan, have said Percy's re-election is vital to help the GOP retain its majority in the 100-member Senate.

CHARLES PERCY

THOMAS CORCORAN

The president technically is neutral in the primary, but he spoke at a big testimonial and fund-raising dinner for Percy in Chicago last year before the campaign began to heat up.

This elective position and seven other Republican-held Senate seats are rated as "loss-ups," so close that they could be retained or lost in November on the basis of this year's economic and world trends and occurrences.

At 64, Percy wants to remain the foreign relations leader, not compete for the Senate leadership post, which is being vacated by the retirement of Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee.

Cong. Corcoran, 44, less well known in Madison County, has waged a massive and expensive campaign in recent months, trying to overcome his opponent's greater name recognition. Percy has a larger campaign treasury, but he knows he is in a bitter fight.

The challenger, a four-term member of Congress, is making a number of friends with his stand opposing mandatory yearly auto emission testing in Chicago and Madison-St. Clair counties.

Calling it an "unwarranted burden" on motorists, Corcoran said Percy has not joined in sponsoring legislation to prevent the "undue hardship involved in an automotive exhaust test program."

Actually, there are five candidates for the GOP nomination to the Senate but little has been heard from Richard J. Castie, V.A. Kelley and John E. Roche.

A senator for the past 18 years, Percy says, "There is every advantage for Illinois to have someone close to the president, close to the top in seniority."

Conceding that he is not a conservative, the former "boy wonder" of the business world cites his vote-getting performance and says he is uniquely capable of attracting Democratic and independent support as well as Republican backing.

He lost the governor race in 1964 to Gov. Otto Kerner, a Democrat, but two years later defeated longtime U.S. Senator Paul Douglas.

against Percy as he tries for a fourth consecutive term, just as it did against Douglas in 1966. But Percy is healthy and vigorous—and nine years younger than the president, who also is seeking re-election.

Now the third-ranking senator in seniority, Percy broke with the White House in 1981 in blocking a Department of State nomination and in resisting "get tough with Cuba" programs, but he now speaks often of his friendship with the president.

His heavy investment in television commercials will help explain "the Illinois advantage." He comments, "Voters see the advantage. They see the element of clout," including funding for a new Illinois River bridge at LaSalle-Peru.

Cong. Corcoran sharply disagrees. He points to his efforts on the auto emission issue and adds that the LaSalle-Peru bridge was first put into Congressional legislation by, you guessed it, Corcoran.

"Where is his clout? He may be third-ranked but he was beaten by a freshman," Sen. John Warner, a Virginia Republican, Corcoran says. The struggle was over whether a new nuclear accelerator—an immense project that is intended to provide a breakthrough in fuel production—would be built in the state of Virginia or at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago.

Corcoran has flooded the public and news media with almost daily updates on his Congressional actions and Senatorial campaign pronouncements. Each carries special ornamentation in dark red, light gray, black and light blue.

So far, he has raised $750,000 and the incumbent has amassed $140,000.

Percy's major contributors include bankers, among them David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank. The senator's daughter is the wife of a Rockefeller who was a Democratic governor.

In the last half of 1983 Corcoran raised more money than did Percy, $560,000 to $415,000, but the cost of Corcoran's direct-mail approach was severe—about 50 cents for each dollar received from citizens.

Including earlier receipts, Percy had $540,000 on hand and Corcoran only $50,000 as 1984 began. The dinner attended by Pres. Reagan raised $800,000 and Percy hopes to garner $400,000 from a dinner that will feature an appearance by former Pres. Gerald R. Ford. But Corcoran says he is attracting the most financial help, by a wide margin, from voters who care deeply about specific campaign issues.

As the congressman views it, he would have the best chance of winning Nov. 6 against the survivor of a strong group vying for the Democratic nomination—Paul Simon, Roland Burris, Philip Rock and Alex Seith.

Corcoran sees Republicans uniting with conservative Democrats who voted for Republican in the Chicago election last April. Democrat Harold Washington was elected as the new mayor, aided by the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

The way to woo conservative Democrats "is not to help Jesse Jackson go to Syria," Corcoran asserts. As foreign relations chairman, Sen. Percy helped arrange the Mideast trip by Democratic presidential candidate Jackson, who obtained the release of Navy pilot Robert Goodman.

With Gov. James R. Thompson

leading the Reagan re-election campaign in Illinois and also backing Percy, and with the president taking no formal stand on the Senate primary, Cong. Corcoran nevertheless says he has the strong backing of leading Reagan enthusiasts in Illinois and in Washington, D.C.

Some of the Corcoran endorsements have come from Illinoisans friendly to Israel. Percy supported the sale of advanced radar airplanes to Saudi Arabia and has been publicly critical of Israel.

There may be only a few cross-over ballots next month due to the spirited Democratic fights for the presidential and Senatorial nominations. This prospect is seen as aiding conservatives against moderates in any Republican primary battles.

But, if they are as skillfully devised, Sen. Percy's numerous televised campaign commercials could prove decisive, authorities say.

Percy entered government service after a meteoric rise to lead the Bell & Howell Co. before the age of 30. Corcoran, a former Army artillery officer, was vice president of the Chicago & North Western Railroad; he has never lost a general election.

Corcoran's main Congressional work has been on the Energy and Commerce Committee. He successfully opposed the anti-illinois provisions of the American Telephone and Telegraph restructuring, and blocked a $50 billion charge to consumers when the Alaskan natural gas pipeline was built.

His Congressional district covers parts of Cook, Kane, LaSalle, DuPage, DeKalb, Kendall, Marshall, McHenry and Boone counties.

Claiming that Percy is out of touch and that Percy's "liberalism is no longer in style," Corcoran is staking his campaign on a platform of "less government spending, strong national defense and lower taxes."

Sen. Percy is a world-known public official who enjoys his life as a senator and does not want to give it up, although he is wealthy enough to have retired long ago. He says his interest and role in foreign affairs have been of benefit to all Illinoisans, whose state leads the nation in exports.

He helped write the Surface Transportation Act, through which Illinois has been getting $1.65 for each of its federal gasoline tax dollars, and his committee developed the War Powers Act to "prevent any possibility of a future war like the one that was fought in Vietnam."

National Steel

its role in the field of financial services.

ACQUISITION strategies by momentarily cash-rich NII were among the chief topics as the board of directors met Tuesday and yesterday in Florida under the chairmanship of Howard M. "Pete" Love. Quick NII growth in finance or in entirely new directions would aid in blocking any takeover attempts that might be attracted by the bonanza from its sale of steelmaking, coal and iron ore assets, experts say.

National Steel, including Granite City Steel, is still the seventh biggest producer in the nation (down from its status as fourth largest after Weirton Steel was sold to the Weirton, W. Va., employees).

National's six percent share of this country's 1983 domestic steel shipments compares with 16.7 percent for U.S. Steel (22.7 if they merge), 8.6 for Jones & Laughlin and 7.1 percent for Republic (15.7 if those two firms merge), 12.9 percent for Bethlehem, 7.1 percent for Inland and 6.4 percent for Armco.

AMONG ISSUES bothering the United Steelworkers, who may sue, is that the two pending consolidations could concentrate within three firms a majority of the nation's steel production.

The top five steelmakers would control nearly two-thirds of the domestic producers' market.

Both National Intergroup (formerly National Steel Corp.) and U.S. Steel have been moving toward less reliance on steelmaking as a profit source.

Factors in their thinking include intense foreign competition, the cyclical nature of the demand for steel, and the heavy monetary investment that is required.

National in 1980 acquired 62 percent ownership of First Nationwide Financial Corp., parent firm of First National Corp. Savings, the eighth largest savings and loan association.

In 1981 it lived up to that name, becoming the first truly nationwide thrift firm when it absorbed two failing savings and loan groups with the aid of a federal subsidy. Adding to a primarily California base, it became active in Florida and New York.

An interest rate squeeze several years ago hurt First Nationwide as well as most other thrift companies, which had to pay high interest while receiving lower amounts from long-term mortgages.

But First Nationwide recovered and was one of six profitable firms among the nation's top 25 S&Ls in 1982. For 1983, it contributed $28.9 million in net equity income to NII.

Aluminum operations of National Intergroup had a $31.4 million operating profit in 1983. NII also has a large metals distribution group.

Anthony M. Frank, First Nationwide chairman and a National Intergroup director, this week recommended major financial service expansion, including purchase of other companies; he hopes to see NII become one of the 20 largest financial services companies by 1990. No major aluminum or distribution expansion is being discussed at present.

CHAIRMAN LOVE, a former president of Granite City Steel and of Midwest Steel at Portage, Ind., said there are no firm candidates for immediate acquisition. The timing will await completion of the U.S. Justice Department's review of the sale to U.S. Steel, he added.

Plants to be acquired by U.S. Steel for $575 million in cash and securities include GC Steel, Midwest Steel and Great Lakes Steel, a giant facility located near Detroit. Robert D. McBride advanced from the GC

Steel presidency to head Great Lakes and now is president of the Steel Group, renamed National Steel.

Armco, sixth largest steelmaker, diversified into varied financial services in 1980 but agreed last month to sell its big insurance business to a West German company after experiencing losses in 1983.

National was able to afford First Nationwide because of its profitable steelmaking prior to the 1980s recession.

NOW, with the sale to U.S. Steel, although NII is being called only a shell of its former self, NII can afford to move more aggressively into financial services than can such firms as Armco.

The Wall Street Journal described NII this week as a tempting takeover target, due not only to the announced sale price but also U.S. Steel's scheduled assumption of $460 million in long-term NII debt.

Paine Webber Mitchell Hutchins sees three possible outcomes—NII being gobbled up by some other corporate, expanding rapidly on its own, or being liquidated altogether through sale of remaining divisions.

share liquidation value compared to current stock trading in the vicinity of $30.

NII says it is here to stay, and that it is examining not only new financial service ventures but also unrelated business lines.

U.S. STEEL executives are among those debating the advantages and disadvantages of their firm's offer to buy National Steel.

Already number one, U.S. with this move would reassert its undoubted dominance. The purchase would reverse a trend in which the role of steel was gradually diminishing in comparison with U.S. steel's oil, chemical and other operations.

Upon being elected U.S. Steel chairman five years ago, David M. Rodion, expanee, had planned to build a $4 billion plant on Lake Erie, somewhat like National Steel announced and then abandoned a proposed $2 billion to $3 billion expansion of Midwest Steel near Lake Michigan.

Marathon Oil, bought for $5.9 billion two years ago, in 1983 accounted for 55 percent of U.S. Steel's $175 billion revenue. In May 1983 Thomas Graham, Jones & Laughlin president, was hired to run U.S. Steel's steel operations.

Later last year U.S. Steel said it would close a fifth of its steelmaking capacity, laying off 15,400.

GRAHAM indicates he wants to reduce past emphasis on construction steel and, aided by National's plants, stress sheet steel for such consumer goods as autos and appliances.

The National Intergroup board's Jean Mayer, president of Tufts University, says NII is eager to leave a low-earning, declining industry (steel) that has "long-term, chronic problems."

U.S. Steel is somewhat more optimistic about steel's future while admitting that at present it is easier to make money in non-steel businesses.

U.S. Steel is expected to use stock to meet much of the cost of acquiring National Steel. A $1.15 billion pre-tax charge for plant closings has just raised U.S. Steel's debt-equity ratio above 60 percent, considered to be too high, but issuing stock would reduce the ratio.

With National's $460 million long-term debt included, U.S. Steel's total indebtedness exceeds $8 billion.

Fund raiser Sunday for Burris at SIUE

A fund-raising dinner for Illinois Comptroller Roland W. Burris, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate in the March 20 primary election, will take place from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19, in the Meridian Ballroom at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Burris, 46, will be the keynote speaker at the affair, it was announced Wednesday by the Burris for U. S. Senator Committee of Madison County. The public is being invited to attend.

Tickets costing $20 each or further information may be obtained from Winston Brown of Edwardsville, 1-636-0811, or Charles Steptoe of Madison, 676-7153.

Burris, a native of Centralia who now lives in Chicago, presently is serving his second term as state comptroller.

He started his government career in the cabinet of Gov. Dan Walker, and in 1978 became the first black elected to statewide office in Illinois. He won re-election by more than one million votes four years later.

In the March primary election, Burris will be competing with three other prominent Democrats for the opportunity to challenge U. S. Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.).

Also in the primary are U. S. Rep. Paul Simon (D-Makanda), Sen. Philip J. Rock (D-Oak Park), president of the Illinois Senate, and Alex R. Seith, a lawyer from suburban Chicago who ran against Percy in 1978.

Mehelic arraigned on 6 felony counts

Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic will go to trial April 2 on six felony counts of official misconduct. The date was set as Mehelic was arraigned at 1 p.m. yesterday before Associate Judge Charles V. Roman Jr. in the county courthouse in Edwardsville.

Mehelic had originally been charged with eight felony counts of official misconduct, but two of these were dropped for no probable cause, the judge ruled. The remaining charges allege misuse of township equipment, supplies and manpower for private work or personal benefit.

Mehelic's attorney, Jim Wallis of Granite City, made a motion that all counts against Mehelic be dropped, but the judge found probable cause in six of the eight counts, dismissing the others.

Since his indictment by a county grand jury, Mehelic has remained free on a $35,000 recognizance bond, which requires the posting of only $2 cash.

PUBLIC AID CHECK TAKEN

Yvonda Johnson, 3511 Second St., Madison, told Madison police Monday that someone took a Public Aid check for $236 from her mailbox. Police are investigating the incident.

O'NEILL PLAY BEGINS

FOUR-DAY PERFORMANCE

"A Moon for the Misbegotten," Eugene O'Neill's classic drama, will be performed by the Arts League of Edwardsville at the upper level of the Cottonwood Mall, Glen Carbon.

Performance times will be 7:30 p.m. tonight through Saturday and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $2.50. Those wishing further information may call 1-656-6876.

amount of the reduction that they proposed."

Taxing body officials have been told that a plant spokesman participating in compromise talks later was countermanded by superiors who said he had exceeded his authority. In any case, the review board concluded that the compromise was "fair to all."

THE THREE-MEMBER board on Tuesday cut Granite City Steel's $7,600,210 Nameoki Township 1983 assessor proposal (affecting 1984 tax collections) by $500,000 to $7,100,210, Harris said.

A document on his desk, related to the Blast Furnace, showed a reduction from $7,158,720 to $6,658,720, he added, pointing out that "one of the furnaces was to be rebuilt, but was not."

Regarding the South Plant of Granite City Steel, the former Commonwealth or General Steel plant, the board lowered the valuation by $589,110, from $865,490 to $376,380, he related.

That facility has deteriorated, and the effect of inflation-related multipliers, meanwhile, had boosted the assessment far beyond the actual value, Harris commented.

"THE MAIN PLANT was reduced by $2,500,000, from $34,877,970 to $32,377,970," the board chairman reported.

Granite City Township's overall assessment of GC Steel was trimmed by $3,089,110, from $43,863,280 to $40,774,170.

The plant's two-township figure was decreased from $51,553,490 to $47,964,380, it was noted.

In all cases, the amounts reflect what is estimated to be one-third of full, fair cash market value. The $51,553,490 valuation indicated a presumed actual worth of $154,660,470.

HARRIS SAID the assessor-set figures were about the same as a year ago in Nameoki and slightly below the assessment of a year ago in Granite City.

The approximate seven percent reduction is justified and represents an actual saving on real estate taxes for the company, Harris said.

At the same time, it avoids excessive damage to governmental agencies' tax base, he asserted.

The potential revenue loss is thought to be in excess of $100,000 a year for Granite City schools and more than $50,000 a year for the City of Granite City.

Aerobics class is offered in GC

Classes are now forming for the dancersize program at the new Renaissance Center (formerly Granite City Racquetball Club), 3901 Stearns Avenue.

Evening and daytime classes are offered with one-hour sessions twice a week.

The seven-week course will begin Feb. 20. The program is a combination of stretch and floor exercise and aerobics choreography to music.

Persons should call 931-3850 for information and registration.

Brinley Bodnam DeMolay Class initiated

B. Edward Bodnam, Jeffrey A. Beasley, Bryan Giese, Bobby W. Whitford, and Christopher Jandro and Timothy M. DeMolay, of Collinsville, became DeMolays, last week, as members of the "Brinley O. Bodnam" class. Jandro and Mins became members of the Alton Chapter, Collinsville. The others, members of James Stuart Chapter Order of DeMolay.

The late Brinley O. Bodnam served on the chapter advisory council from 1923 to 1941. Brinley Edward Bodnam Jr., his grandson, is the third generation to be affiliated with the local chapter of DeMolay. His son, Brinley Edward Sr., is a senior DeMolay.

The initiation degree was conferred by the senior line officers with past master counselor D. J. Bertier of Alton Chapter and Bryan K. Pritchett assisting.

The DeMolay degree was portrayed by: Keith Payne as orator; Robert Ishum, DeMolay; Alan Forbes Jr., Guy of Avarque; Steven Smith, Hugue de Peralde; Fred Trebing, Godfrey de Bonville; D. J. Bertier, master inquisitor; Ralph F. McKinney Jr., senior inquisitor; David T. Medley, junior inquisitor; Jeff Limbaugh, Brian Forbes, Steven Canada and Timothy Glendenning as inquisitor escorts; Joseph Pates, Marshall of the Commission; R. J. Collier and Jeffrey Wright of Collinsville, Marshall guards; John Donjain, senior guard; Todd Todaro, Brett Carner, Bryan Pritchett and Eric Smith, soldiers; Matthew Cotter, Lord Constable; John C. Lham, French captain and Glen Goodman and Terry Cory, French soldiers.

Following the degrees, mothers and other guests were invited into the chapter room where Mrs. Marilyn Bodnam, presented the chapter a sweetheart sash which she had made. The master counselor, in turn, presented it to the chapter sweetheart, Beth Bodnam.

Ralph F. McKinney Jr. then gave the "DeMolay Flower Talk" to the new DeMolays. It calls attention to the new jewel adorning the Crown of Youth - Filian Love. For this talk red and white flowers on the DeMolay altar are "symbols of that mother love - the white, the love of the mother who has gone on - and the red, the mother who still lives to bless the DeMolay's life." Each took a red flower from the altar.

VENICE POLICE LOCATE VAN MISSING 12 HOURS

A dark green van belonging to Elizabeth Gibson, 1021 Third St., Venice, reported taken without permission late last week, was recovered during the weekend at Second and Kerry streets, Venice.

An officer noticed a man getting out of a van matching the description of the stolen vehicle and arrested the suspect when he began to walk north on Second Street. The man was released, however, when he relinquished a key to the van and the owner declined to press charges.

LEAVING ACCIDENT SCENE CHARGED IN VENICE CRASH

Richard Lee Emmons, 27, Desota, Mo., was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and failure to give aid or information after his vehicle allegedly crashed into the back of a car at the intersection of Market Street and Broadway in Venice.

The driver of the other car, Karen G. Lewis, 107 Douglas St., Venice, was at a stop sign on Market St., when a car struck her car in the rear. She said she turned around and the car hit her again. She said the car then continued from the scene.

Miss Lewis was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where she was treated.

DUI, 2 OTHER CHARGES

Alvin W. Kahler Jr., 31, of 3229 Davis Ave. was arrested there for driving while under the influence of alcohol, transporting peppermint schnapps and possessing cannabis last week. It is alleged that at 3:20 a.m. that day the front of his auto, northbound in the 3100 block of Nameoki Road, hit the left rear of a Berberich Delivery van. Parked at the curb, the van had emergency lights flashing while the driver was making a delivery. Kahler was freed on his driver license and $102 cash.

During the business meeting that followed, the annual chili supper date was announced for Feb. 21. Supper will be from 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 20th Street and Cleveland Boulevard. The $2 donation includes homemade chili or hot dogs, a homemade dessert and a drink - milk, soda or coffee. Carryouts are also available. Tickets can be purchased from any DeMolay or advisor or at the door.

Master Councilor Jimmy K. Stuart set aside the evening as "Masonic Night" and presented a pocket secretary with a Masonic emblem on it to each Master Mason. Masons from various blue lodges including those from Triple Lodge 835 A.F. & A.M. and Granite City Lodge 877 A.F. & A.M. were there. Robert Ashcraft, Worshipful Master of 835, represented his lodge and Jimmy E. Stuart, Senior Steward of 877, represented his lodge. Stuart also serves as the grand master's (E. Gene Ross, representative to the Illinois Masonic Youth Foundation, Martin D. Love, chairman of Illinois Masonic Grand Lodge Youth Committee, was also a guest.

Guests from the Illinois Order of DeMolay included Carroll R. Sinks Jr., of Collinsville, executive administrator of activities; Jimmy K. Stuart, executive administrator of programs; and Edward E. Bieser of Collinsville, executive officer for the jurisdiction of Illinois. Bieser congratulated the newest members of the International Order of DeMolay and spoke briefly. Also speaking were Mr. Jandro, Mr. Bodnam and Mr. Whitford - fathers and uncle of three of the new DeMolays.

E. Gene Ross, Most Worshipful Grand Master of Illinois Grand Lodge of Masons of Illinois, expressed his regrets by letter for not being able to attend the Masonic night.

Refreshments were served by the Mothers Club and Beth Bodnam, chapter sweetheart, presented each DeMolay present, with a personalized heart shaped cake which she baked and heart shaped candy.

ELECTRIC PIANO TAKEN IN VENICE BURGLARY

Calvin and Beverly Dobbins, 623 Jefferson Ave., Venice, returned home during the weekend to find their home had been burglarized and an electric piano worth about $1,500 missing.

Entry into the dwelling apparently was gained by breaking glass in a door. Two bedrooms in the house had been ransacked, reports said. Nothing other than the piano was immediately determined to be missing.

ALCOHOL RELATED CHARGE

Dewey H. Cheung, 33, of 1208 Niedringhaus Ave., was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol during the weekend, when his auto was halted at Benton Street and Niedringhaus Avenue and a partially empty can of beer allegedly was found in the car. He was released at the scene to appear in court March 16.

LOOT VEHICLE ON LOT
An AM-FM cassette player valued at $200, an equalizer unit worth $100, various hand tools and a 22-channel CB radio were stolen from the van of Barry White of Collinsville while the vehicle was in Granite City main post office parking lot at 84th Street and Madison Avenue, the owner reported during the weekend.

BLOCKED CROSSING CITED

After she obtained the numbers on two engines and the caboose of a train, which reported blocked the 25th Street railroad crossing from 4:54 p.m. until 5:12 p.m. Saturday, Cathy Cullen of Granite City went to Granite City police headquarters to request a summons be issued against Norfolk & Western Railroad.

New look for Pontoon police, but liquor laws stay the same

By DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Pontoon Beach police officers will be wearing new uniforms this spring and there will be no change in the liquor license ordinance for Pontoon Beach. It was determined at a meeting of the Board of Trustees, Tuesday night.

President Paul Bennett announced the receipt of a gift of $1,500 from the Lions Club of Pontoon Beach that is to be used specifically for the purchase of new uniforms for the police officers.

AFTER BOARD approval to accept the gift, Bennett explained the donation will provide each officer with two complete uniforms and one uniform for the dispatcher. The new dress code will be black shirt, jacket and trousers accented with a gray stripe on the side of the trousers and a similar marking on the shirts and jackets.

A controversy over amending the current liquor ordinance in the village was brought to a finale with board members voting against a motion introduced by Trustee Bob Ables to add three Class B liquor licenses to the existing six.

The initial request of Jerry Webster, a representative of Clark Oil Co., for a license to sell beer only at the Clark Service Station on Route 111 was made again at the January meeting.

WEBSTER was denied a license a year ago with the president explaining there were no available licenses to be issued.

Prior to the vote on the motion, Trustee Donald Rea addressed the board and said he received several telephone calls from area residents who were against the issuance of any more liquor licenses in Pontoon Beach. Voting against the motion to add more licenses were Trustees Don Rea, Loren Edlison, Keith Biggs and Bob Vincent.

In other business Bennett said specifications from Sheppard, Morgan and Schwaab engineers were submitted for work on the parking lot at the Village Hall and adjacent to the new senior citizens' building. The bids will be opened at the next regular meeting on Feb. 28. Madison County Community Development has approved funding for the project, Bennett added.

THE REMOVAL of a wall on the village hall and a concrete walkway and the replacement of a brick wall has been completed, the president announced. However, there was an additional cost of $500 to be absorbed by the village and contractor for the extensive work in removing the below ground brickwork.

It was initially believed this amount was not the responsibility of the village, until Ben McMillon, village building inspector, reminded the board that the advertisement for bids for the project did not define the underground work and the contractor was not aware the removal of 30 feet was to be included in his bid. Board members then agreed to pay $250, with the contractor responsible for paying the other half.

An announcement was read by Mary Warren, village clerk, in conjunction with the Job Fair for the handicapped scheduled for March 30 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Englebert Hall in Madison. The event is sponsored by Parents for Special Education and will feature the attendance of area businessmen and employers, who will speak on employment opportunities for the handicapped.

A MAP of the village, prepared by a man in Bethalto, was displayed by Mrs. Warren, who noted the map maker submitted it as a sales promotion. Board members did not approve supporting the map project. Board member Rea spoke to the council on motorcycles racing along Iris Avenue by young people under the age of 16 without a proper license for the bikes or drivers. Since this has been a complaint for several years, Rea said, "I think the chief of police should be aware of the noise aggravation, as well as the safety element for small children living in that area, and make arrests of the drivers, as well as the parents who are responsible for their bikers."

He concluded with, "I intend to be in that area Saturday and I will personally call a police officer to follow the law in eliminating the problem so it does not continue all summer and fall."

BENNETT agreed the problem has been a long-standing one and that the parents will be responsible for any infraction of the law if their child is riding a motorcycle without a proper license. "I will also notify the chief of police of this matter so he can move accordingly," Bennett added.

In response to a resident objecting to the ditches in the Pontoon Beach area being clogged with leaves and other debris from the winter, Bennett explained that under the contract with Nameoki Township, all will be reditched to clear the normal passage for overflow water.

Jim McMillon, building inspector, who informed the board he will leave the area in six months, announced Tuesday night that his departure time has been changed to the end of March. In relation to his work as building inspector, he requested the board appoint Jim Doolin as his assistant.

APPROVAL was granted to give McMillon time to train Doolin in the duties of inspector and, therefore, be ready to perform the work when McMillon leaves.

Board members also approved granting $50 a month as expense money to Doolin until he becomes a full-time employee.

In an effort to update the building codes in Pontoon Beach, McMillon announced he will have a new building construction ordinance ready for the next meeting for board consideration.

"I think people have the wrong idea about revising the building codes in this area. I do not intend to put a hardship on anyone, but some of the codes must be updated to conform with state and national requirements, as well as to control new building for the safety of the community. However, existing codes will be enforced," McMillon explained.

A SPOKESMAN for the Pontoon Beach Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post inquired how the post and of an additional 1½ acres adjacent to the park could be annexed into the village.

Bennett said there will be no problem, but the first step must be to submit a legal description of the property to be recorded in Edwardsville.

Farm Column

Programs study vegetables and fruit

By RONALD E. CORNWELL
Extension Adviser

A program on vegetable gardening will be held Thursday, Feb. 16, at 10 a.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Chris Doll, University of Illinois area adviser in fruits and vegetables, will be the speaker. The program will cover many gardening tips to help you prepare to garden this spring. This will go from preparing the garden to selecting the proper vegetable varieties for your garden.

Chris Doll will provide information on how to raise tomatoes, peppers, beans, cabbage, cauliflower, onions, muskmelon, squash, potatoes and many other vegetables in the garden. Other topics include fertility, insect control, disease control, starting transplants and what is new in gardening for 1984.

For additional information on the gardening program, contact the Madison County Extension office at 1-556-8400.

SMALL FRUIT MEETING

A program on "Raising Small Fruits in the Backyard" will be held Tuesday, Feb. 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville. This program will cover all phases of raising small fruits in the backyard. The small fruits that will be discussed include strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, gooseberries and grapes.

Other topics to be covered include pruning small fruits, fertilization, insect control, disease problems and other cultural tips.

Chris Doll, Area Adviser in fruits and vegetables, will be the speaker. For additional information on the program, call the Madison County Extension office at 1-556-8400.

FREE FRUIT MEETING

A meeting on "Raising Tree Fruits in the Backyard" will be conducted Thursday, Feb. 16, at 7:30 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

The tree fruit program will provide the latest information on raising tree fruits in the backyard. The tree fruits to be discussed include apples, peaches, cherries, pears, plums and apricots. The program will cover the latest information on fertility, cultural practices, pruning, effects of weather on fruit production, insect control and disease problems.

Chris Doll, University of Illinois Area Adviser in fruits and vegetables, will be the speaker.

MONEY MANAGEMENT

A full day program on basic record keeping and money management will be held Friday, Feb. 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

The morning program from 10 a.m. to noon will cover basic record keeping. Duane Erickson, University of Illinois farm management specialist, will be the speaker for the record keeping session.

The afternoon program from 1 to 4 p.m. will cover money management. Jan Austermiller, financial planning division of Country Companies, will be teaching this session.

The morning program on basic record keeping is jointly sponsored by the Madison County Farm Bureau Women's Committee and the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Madison County. The afternoon program is sponsored by the women's committee. Carleen Paul of the Worden area has coordinated the program. Lunch will be provided at noon.

COMPUTER PROGRAM

I want to remind farmers in Madison County of the Computer Awareness Workshop which will be held Thursday, Feb. 16 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Auditorium in Edwardsville. Computers will play an important part in your farming operation in the 1980's. This program will highlight some of the ways this will occur.

FILE ALCOHOL-RELATED CHARGES AGAINST TWO

While patrolling in the 2000 block of Ohio Avenue at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, an officer noticed an auto occupied by four people, parked with the headlights off.

In checking the car, an open bottle of beer, an open fifth of wine and an eight-pack of beer were found, it was noted. Charged with illegal transportation of alcohol was Robert L. Flaugh, 20, of Tusculum, Mo., the driver. Gregory G. Williams, 22, of 2417 Dewey Ave., a passenger, was charged with illegal possession of alcohol.

Two women in the auto were released without being charged.

Group members share feelings to help relieve grief

By JUDY TAPLIN

They came alone, or in pairs, to sit in a large circle.

The majority were women, but there were men, too. They looked like ordinary people, but they were carrying special unseen burdens — grief at the loss of a loved one, either through death or divorce.

THE LOSS had been very recent for some. For others, like Mary Wildman of Bethalto, it had happened years ago.

They came, 30 in all, to the basement of St. Cecilia's Catholic Church in Glen Carbon to one of six in a series of grief support workshops sponsored by Hospice of Madison County.

Grief support groups are relatively new. They were unheard of in 1966, when Mary Wildman lost her 24-year-old son Lanny in a car accident. "How did I cope? Not very well," she told the group.

"I GROPEED, stumbled and crawled my way back to life again. I didn't understand grief — there were no support groups 17½ years ago," she said.

Her life fell apart on a peaceful Sunday afternoon in June 1966 when she and her husband pulled into the driveway of their home and saw a large number of personal friends in the yard.

Lanny, the second of her three sons, had married that spring. He was a student minister, set to graduate from Harding College two months later.

HE WAS killed instantly in an auto accident while on his way to preach at a small church nearby.

"For two months, I couldn't accept the fact of Lanny not coming back," she told the group. Finally, with acceptance, came her grief.

She said some criticisms for her not snapping out of her sorrow, and she crawled deep down inside herself to avoid these people, she said.

Only her husband seemed to understand that talking about Lanny was the lone thing that seemed to help.

MUCH LATER, she said, she learned that this need to talk of him was a normal and natural facet of the grief process.

"If I had had a support group like this, just to support me and love me, I wouldn't bear the scars I do."

There is a time, she assured the group, when you do begin to emerge from your pain.

In Mary's case, her loss led her to help form a Compassionate Friends chapter in the Wood River area.

Compassionate Friends, founded in England in 1969, is for people who have lost children.

LOSING A child, Mary said, is called "the ultimate grief." She told the group at St. Cecilia's that she is convinced her work with Compassionate Friends is part of a master plan for her life. She is not, she said, the same person she was in 1966, before her son was killed.

"Until Lanny, I never realized how people out there were hurting," she said.

Seventeen years ago, when Mary's son died, nobody wanted to talk about death. That attitude hasn't changed much in 1984, Nina Millett, director of Hospice, told the group.

"Society doesn't want us to grieve," she said.

A NOTED doctor has referred to America as the only country in the world with no visible sign of mourning. Israel, for example, has a walling wall, the group was told, and other countries honor bereavement in various ways.

When did the U.S. stop, and why did it stop? Some people in the circle wanted to know.

A murmur went around the circle when the group was told that the man on the street feels the average time to quit grieving is about two weeks.

Personal experiences of some of those present suggested that others don't always know how to provide comfort to the bereaved.

A woman told of how, after her husband died, friends said, "Call me if you need me." She needed someone, but she couldn't make the call. She needed someone to call her.

Around the circle, there were nods of understanding.

A YOUNG woman whose husband had died told the group of a friend who attempted to cheer her by noting that she was young and would marry again. The person who made that cheerful observation was no longer her friend, she said.

Gently, the group told her that the friend's statement had been well-meaning. Maybe so, she responded, but she's not my friend anymore.

A man told of his doctor's insistence that he come in for frequent checkups after his wife died.

Now, much later, he believes the doctor, understanding his grief, was as concerned that he had someone to talk to as he was with the bereaved's physical well-being.

THE SERIES of grief support workshops sponsored by Hospice concluded Feb. 14.

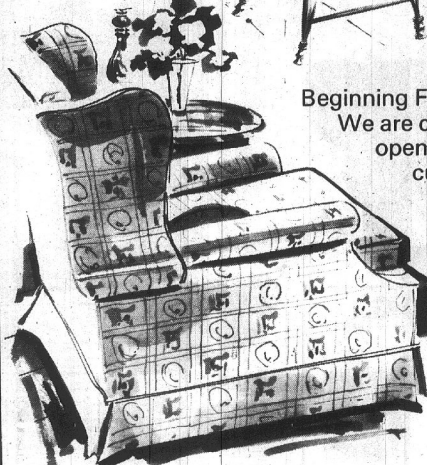

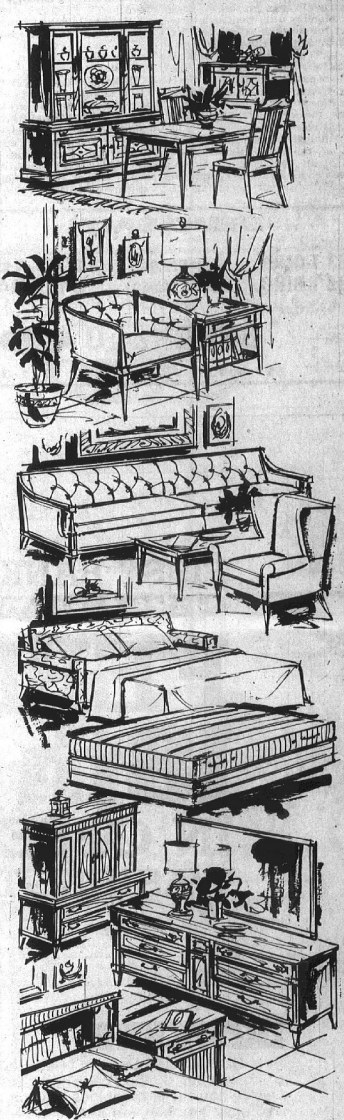

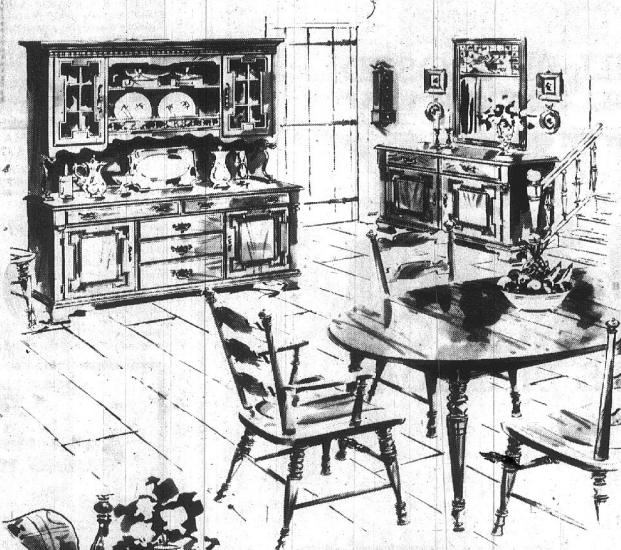

But the people who sat around the big circle may meet again: A permanent grief support group may evolve from the workshops.

That society is gradually paying more attention to the effects of grief can be illustrated by the number of grief seminars now appearing.

For more information on Hospice's own plans for a continuing support group, interested persons may call 798-3399.

HONORED EAGLE. Illinois Governor James R. Thompson meets with local Eagle Scout Scott Wilson during the State Citizenship Day in Springfield.

Eagle Scout attends citizenship program

Eagle Scout Scott Wilson, a member of the Cahokia Mounds Council of the Boy Scouts of America, represented his chapter at a celebration of State Citizenship Day in Springfield, Ill.

Wilson was one of 32 Scouts and Explorers who were selected by their councils for outstanding leadership qualities. During the celebration, these Scouts are allowed to "take over" a state elective or appointive office for the day.

Each representative was given a chance to campaign for one of the six elective state offices. An election was then conducted and the results determined which Eagle would fill each office. The rest of the Scouts were appointed to their various posts by the Eagle Scout governor and their various Scout posts.

Wilson was appointed as the director of revenue for the state. He said the appointment was ironic, since his father's construction company, S.M. Wilson Construction, is building the new department of revenue building in Springfield.

The climax of the three-day event was the Tuesday governor's luncheon. Following an address by Illinois Governor Jim Thompson and being sworn into his office by Secretary of State Jim Edgar, each Eagle Scout spent the afternoon with his state office holder, learning about his job and state government.

Wilson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David (Ellen) Wilson, 12 Terrace Lane. He currently is enrolled as a freshman at Rosary High School, Spanish Lake, Mo.

PASSENGER IS CHARGED

After stopping an auto at 23rd Street and Illinois Avenue late last week, an officer charged a passenger, Thomas M. Clifton, 21, of 2100 Dewey Ave., with illegal possession of alcohol when several open cans of beer allegedly were seen between his feet on the floor. Clifton was released at the scene after signing a traffic citation agreeing to appear in court March 16.

Serving our country

News of Quad-City area servicemen serving in the various branches of the U.S. military includes:

Newly promoted Army Sergeant Major Robert L. Moore, son of Mrs. Paul E. Lewis of Granite City, has been decorated with the second award of the Meritorious Service Medal in Lakehurst, N. J.

Army Sgt. Maj. Moore is a 1962 graduate of Granite City High School. The Meritorious Service Medal is awarded specifically for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.

DONALD R. SCOTT

Lance Corporal Donald R. Scott, U.S. Marine Corps, returned Tuesday to Okinawa after being here on emergency leave since Jan. 6.

The serviceman was called home due to the death of his grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Sanders of Kirksville, Mo. He is the son of Norman Scott, 2904 Glen Place, and Mrs. Virginia Bresnahan of Arlington Heights.

Lance Cpl. Scott joined the Marine Corps in August 1980. He is due to be discharged from the service in three months, the family said.

RICHARD PATTON JR.

Army Private First Class Richard M. Patton Jr., son of Mrs. Rosemary Stephens and stepson of Harry Stephens, 2917 Willow Ave., has arrived at his new duty station in Friedberg, West Germany.

Pfc. Patton, an infantryman, is serving with the 3rd Armored Division in Germany. Previously, he was assigned at Fort Benning, Ga.

DONALD WEIS JR.

Staff Sergeant Donald M. Weis Jr., of Granite City was the recipient of the Commandant's Award and Leadership and Management Commendation for outstanding achievement in the 22nd Air Force Non-Commissioned Officers Leadership program at Little Rock Air Force Base in Arkansas.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike (Ann) Weis, 2012 State St., who attended the awards ceremony last week in Little Rock.

Principal speaker at the graduation was Colonel Richard C. Milnes II of the 443rd Military Airlift Wing at Altus AFB, Okla. Staff Sgt. Weis also was cited as a "distinguished graduate" of the course.

He was presented the Commandant's Award by Air Force Senior Master Sergeant Robert A. MacManus. Selection for this award is voted by the program's faculty members, it was learned.

The local serviceman is stationed at Blytheville Air Force Base in Arkansas, where he currently is assigned to the Air Force Intelligence Division.

He enlisted in the service 5½ years ago after completing his senior year of high school and part of his college freshman year at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Staff Sgt. Weis also has served in the United Kingdom, where he met his wife, Elizabeth, who formerly resided near London.

The couple has a one-year-old son, Michael, and three older children, Sharon, Tracy and Christopher. The family resides on base in Blytheville.

Driver charged DUI after test at SEMC

Bernard G. Jackson, 48, of Rural Route Two, Box 708A, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol when his auto was stopped by police Monday in the 2700 block of Madison Avenue.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where a blood alcohol test was administered. Jackson was returned to police headquarters and was released after posting a $302 cash bond, pending a March 16 court appearance.

The arrest came after a paper delivery truck driver reported a car had been following her vehicle around.

MOTHER SAYS SON, 15, IS BEATEN BY BROTHER

The mother of a 15-year-old Grigsby Junior High School student reported last week that her son was punched in the face and ribs by a Pontoon Beach youth, 16, who attends Granite City High School.

The younger boy sustained bruises to his face and ribs, according to the mother, who asked that appropriate action be taken against the alleged assailant.

FINDS DEBRIS IN HOUSE

After tenants vacated rental property in the 1600 block of Fourth Street, Madison, the dwelling was found to have trash and debris scattered throughout the rooms and a washing machine had been turned upside down, Joseph Marsala, the owner, reported last week.

Hospital notes

Among the patients admitted last week to St. Elizabeth Medical Center were:

Feb. 9—Mary Margaret Brumley, Corena Ward, Marilyn Ryan, all of Granite City.

Feb. 8—Betty Beltman, Lindell Dockery, Tami Scarborough, Uylis Dallas, Jerry Jackson, all of Granite City.

Feb. 7—Doris Cole, Venice; Debbie Bailey, Eric White, Charlotte Parker, Teresa Hogan, Anna Buehrer, Alice Carbone, Agnes Martinez, all of Granite City; David Porter, Livingston; Eleanor Beck.

Feb. 6—Lewis Rains and Evelyn Turner, both of Granite City; Keith Dull, Collinsville.

Feb. 5—Annette Daniels, Venice; Jean Whitehead, Ray Ripperda, Lucy Obermeier, Karen McIntosh, Jack Clemensen, Deborah Kelley, David Smith, Terry Kaleta, Robert Null, all of Granite City; Frank Ingram, Edwardsville, and Marion White of St. Louis.

Eagles Aerie initiates members

Eagles Aerie 1126 held an initiation ceremony for new members. Richard W. Thompson, Robert Mieske, John E. Schwendemann, William G. Hunt, David L. Richey, Patrick McKinney, Timothy E. Wilkinson and Terry L. Crawford, last week, at the Eagles Hall located at 2558 Madison Ave.

Members of the initiation team were Harold R. Love, Randy Odom, Bill Hemken, Larry Barnhart, Bob Stanton and Bud Shaffer. Walter Rickett and Greg McCall were the investigating team for the new members.

President Randy Odom opened the meeting followed by reports given by John Aubuchon, secretary, Don Gray, treasurer and Larry Patton, trustee. A letter was read from Leo Lentach, Eagle Membership Director of Englewood, Co., commending William Barnhart Jr. for the complementary remarks about the membership campaign presently going on nationwide and in Canada.

Harold R. Love, sick and visiting chairman, announced that Orman Kent was still confined at Jefferson Barracks Hospital in Missouri.

A letter from Grand Worthy President Pio Scaglioni was read and in part it stated, "Don't Forget the Vet" is a slogan you hear a lot, and we Eagles have always done our best to provide more than lip service to it. The men and women who have served our country and the cause of freedom by wearing the uniforms of our Armed Services deserve our highest praise and esteem.

"They are our defenders. Without them the American Dream of a land of the free would have been ruined many times over by tyrants, dictators and power-mad opportunists. Our veterans served us, and now it is time for us to serve those whose sacrifices exacted a physical toll on them. I refer, of course, to the patients of the Veterans Hospitals across the land."

"On the week of Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, everyone in the United States of America will pay special tribute to these ex-soldiers, sailors and airmen and airwomen. They gave a lot for you; now remember them," is the theme of the 1984 National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans, and I am asking every member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles to do his part to make this special week an overwhelming, re-sounding success. Let's all take the time and make the effort to personally express our appreciation to those men and women who sacrificed so much," the state officer reported.

"I hope that every single Aerie and Auxiliary will make plans to get involved in the National Salute in February. The Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C., suggests these three steps:

"Call the Veterans Administration medical facility nearest you. Tell them you want to participate in the National Salute to Hospitalized

Veterans. They will tell you all you need to know about how to get there and when and what hospital activities are planned and how you can participate.

"Plan a visit to a Veterans Administration medical facility, sponsored by your Aerie and Auxiliary. Ask the Voluntary Service office at a Veterans Administration medical facility how your club can help on a continuing basis. Thousands of volunteers across the country contribute millions of hours of service every year. You can join this proud company of grateful givers," he added.

President Odom closed the meeting followed by Bill Hemken, Larry Barnhart and Harold R. Love performing the closing ritual.

Venice man receives four charges

Myron D. Mitchell, 22, of 74 Venice Homes, Venice, was arrested by Venice police last week and charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and was served warrants alleging failure to appear in court on charges of having no city slicker and city license.

Mitchell was arrested after police were called to a possible fight at the Venice Liquor Store, 324 Broadway. A Madison police officer assisted Venice police. When Mitchell and two other subjects were told to leave the scene, Mitchell became belligerent, officers alleged.

According to police officials, Mitchell was warned several times to quiet down, but did not. He was then told he was under arrest, but Mitchell allegedly fled.

Police pursued and apprehended Mitchell. During the arrest, Mitchell and the Madison police officer fell to the ground. Mitchell received a cut on his forehead and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he received 12 stitches.

Price of VA handbook is halved

The 1984 edition of the Veterans Administration's benefits handbook, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," is available for $2.25, cut to half the price of last year's edition by the Government Printing Office's (GPO) new pricing formula.

Produced annually by the VA and printed and sold by GPO, the enlarged 73-page booklet provides a summary of benefits available to veterans and dependents.

VA benefits include medical care, education, job training, compensation, pension, insurance, loans and burial assistance. There also is information on Agent Orange; radiation and consultations provided by the Vet Centers.

Job-finding assistance and other Labor Department benefits for veterans are described, as well as benefits provided by the Department of Defense, Small Business Administration and other government offices.

Also included are sections on eligibility; information in Spanish; the toll-free number for former prisoners of war (1-800-821-8139) and information for women veterans. While women veterans are entitled to the same benefits as male veterans, a law enacted last fall assures that appropriate care is provided in a timely fashion to any eligible woman veteran for any gender-specific disability.

Addresses and local phone numbers of all VA offices, medical centers, Vet Centers and national cemeteries are listed in the back of the book.

"Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," (IS-1 Factsheet) is available for $2.25 from the Superintendent of Documents, GPO, Washington, D. C. 20402. The stock number is 051-000-000162.

Allege man flees from police, hits squad car

Tommie Joe Lawson, 27, of Belleville was arrested at 20th and State streets at 3:35 a.m. Tuesday on six charges after a series of events that started at 20th Street and Edwardsville Road.

Lawson was charged with fleeing and attempting to elude a police officer, reckless conduct, resisting arrest, driving too fast for conditions, failing to give information after striking unattended property and disobeying a traffic light.

Officers learned a vehicle had knocked down a spotlight at 20th Street, had departed and had been stopped by a train at the Edwardsville Road crossing.

The auto turned, returning to 20th, where an officer pursued it as it moved toward Madison Avenue at speeds estimated at up to 60 mph.

An officer pulled his squad car—with its red lights and spotlight activated—to the center of 20th Street at Washington Avenue, but the motorist drove over the curb and passed the police car.

Despite an officer overtaking a green car at 20th and Grand Avenue and trying to block the roadway, the driver managed to turn north onto State Street. Again a squad car pulled in front of the auto, which rolled forward and struck the police vehicle in the right side.

Lawson allegedly attempted to exit from the opposite side of the car. Force was used to handcuff him.

In the original crash, a green east-bound car on 20th skidded across a traffic island at Edwardsville Road, hit the signal light and left the scene.

AD HOC REPORT. Harry Burton, acting chairman of the ad hoc committee formed by the Madison County Opportunity Commission to study the agency and its future, reads the committee's final report at a meeting of the EOC board last week in Venice. The report calls for the break-up of the agency. The Madison County Board, Wednesday morning unanimously agreed to assume EOC programs. (Press-Record Photo by Patrick Foley)

1954 GC graduates seek addresses of classmates

The planning committee for the 1954 June and January class reunion held a meeting at Krekovich Realty with Cecile Marcus, Robert Skinner, Carol Cathey, Roger Vail and Loretta Krekovich present. The committee's first flyer which had been mailed in the fall of 1983, produced some response.

However, committee is requesting information on the following list of names of classmates for which this first flyer had been returned: Larry Bowles, James Bradford, Charlesellen Briggs, Mary Lou Chapman, Edward Cook, Jerry Curless, Iny Daves, Patricia Fedorchak, Patricia Gage, Kenneth Johnson, Fred Jones, Ronald King, Shirley Lahr, Ray Lindsey, Wanda Thompson, Mary Jean Doran. Also, Deloris Rice, Loretta Ropac.

FIVE CHARGES ARE FILED AGAINST YOUNG MOTORIST

John M. Peters, 17, of 209 Paradise Lane, Mitchell, was booked on five charges at 2:25 a.m. Tuesday after a 1974 auto without license plates was clocked at 55 mph in a 35-mph zone in the 3000 block of Madison Avenue.

Followed by a squad car, Peters allegedly passed a spotlight on Nameoki Road and turned onto Johnson Road and then Terrace Lane before being stopped. He was charged with attempting to elude police, speeding, reckless driving, not having a valid registration and violating the curfew hour.

FILE CHARGES AGAINST 2

Charles F. Valle, 25, was charged with transporting beer and driving with a suspended license last week on 20th Street at Delmar Avenue. Rita Y. Hagen, 33, of 2845 Edgewood Ave. was arrested there for possessing beer. Numerous young people in the auto had attended a concert in St. Louis, officers learned.

REPORTS $14,000 GONE

An investigation into possible forgery and theft is being made following a report by a customer of a local bank, who told bank officials and police late last week that his account has been depleted by $14,000 in withdrawals, which the man maintained he did not make.

Decisions soon on administrators

A decision may be made as early as Feb. 21 or as late as March 20 on the certificated administrative positions that will be consolidated in order to save salary and benefit costs.

The Board of Education is to receive a committee report on personnel matters Feb. 21. Plans call for all decisions affecting the 1984-85 staff to be made on March 20 or earlier.

Of 33 present administrators, principals and supervisors, the committee has interviewed or has indicated plans to interview 11—Supt. B.J. Davis, Administrative Assistants Warren Collins and James Dumont, Data Processing Director Thomas Noeth, Granite City High School's Gilbert Walmsey and Fred P. Schuman, junior high schools' Mike Sikora, Charles Weiss and Nancy Marti and elementary principals Richard Brinkhoff and Donald Kopp.

Previous years' budget reductions have left several hundred teachers, maintenance craftsmen, administrators, custodians, secretaries and cooks without jobs during a period that has seen enrollment decrease and some schools close. The staff this fall totaled 646, compared to 1,121 a decade ago.

Fres. David Partney has said in public comments that efforts are being made to trim $200,000 to $250,000 from the yearly administrative payroll. How this cost range was arrived at has not been discussed by the board, nor has the board or committee set a precise target figure.

Consolidation of positions will be made effective at the end of the present fiscal year June 30. Scheduled termination in June 1985 of two non-certificated administrators, Harold Hillmer and Boyd McCommis, is estimated to yield between $50,000 and $55,000 in savings. This will be part of the $200,000 to $250,000 projected total.

Nearly all categories of school employees have more duties than before, at the same pay as in 1982-83. The average class size handled by teachers has increased, and the 12 schools remaining in use are more crowded than last year.

Despite this, there is a perception among some board members and by much of the public that administrators have a workload insufficient to keep them busy. Supt. Davis has denied that this is the case and, presumably, will tell the committee that.

He plans to retire June 30, 1986, and other retirements by all types of school personnel also are scheduled for 1984, 1985 and 1986. Early retirements have been encouraged by existing policies that soon will expire.

Defenders say the public's view of an idle administrative staff is not accurate by most means of measurement or evaluation. Others allege seeing administrators spending time in restaurants or at the board office casually discussing the latest Cardinal baseball or football game.

Administrators and supervisors numbered 55 in 1973-74, dropped to 50 in 1975-76, fell to 42 in 1978-80, dropped further, to 40, in 1981-82 and decreased to 33 in 1983-84.

Assistant Supt. Frank Kraus has announced he hopes to retire in 1985 or 1986. With Hillmer and McCommis slated to leave, there will be added duties for Personnel Administrator Terry Salem and Buildings and Grounds Director Ronald Landman.

Other administrators are: Norman Owca, finance director, Joseph Fedora, director of physical education and athletics, Gary Pfrendner, Chapter I supervisor.

Food Services Director Michael Kanak, Insurance Services Coordinator Karen Szodiar, Accounting Services Supervisor Marcella Pilcher, Computer Programmer Monte Kessler.

Vocational-Career Education Director Thomas C. Holloway, Assistant High School Principals Victor Buehler and Kenneth Spalding.

Principals Alfred Wilson of Marshall, John "Jack" Mulach of Maryville, Arthur Menendez of Mitchell, Niedringhaus School's Harry Briggs Jr., Parkview's Agnes Frynko, Webster's James Jeffries and Wilson's Theodore Vrenick.

REPORTS ALTERCATION WITH A FORMER FRIEND

Ruby J. Brown, 2023 McCasland Ave., Madison, reported late last week that she was walking from a business place in the 1400 block of Fifth Street when a man poured a bottle of beer on her hair and threw the bottle at her auto, damaging the side.

Before she could get the car started, the man, a former friend, pushed on the vehicle, moving it, Miss Brown told police.

Former resident wins Auburn service award

Mrs. Lucy (Lahey) Willis, formerly of Madison, has won the Sertoma Club's "Service to Mankind Award" for 1984 in Auburn, Ill., and her achievement was observed at a Feb. 9th dinner in that community.

The award has been bestowed on a civic leader in Auburn for the past seven years, but this year's recipient is the first woman to be so honored.

Mrs. Willis has resided in Auburn since 1938 when she and her late husband, Harry Willis, purchased a funeral home there.

She has served three terms as president of the Auburn Woman's Club and was chairman of the community's Christmas Seals program. Mrs. Willis also organized and was a leader in the Auburn Scouts for several years and helped to organize the senior citizens program. She assisted in forming a "Kitchen Band" and serves as its conductor.

Trojans edge ESTL Flyers in OT

By CHARLIE SKAER

MADISON — Upstairs, the crowd celebrated their home team's success. Madison had just beaten East St. Louis in a thrilling 56-55 overtime victory Tuesday evening.

Fans poured onto the gym floor and gleefully tossed confetti. Although the game wasn't as pretty as the 11-point championship victory over the Flyers in the Centennial Holiday Tournament earlier this year, the fans enjoyed the sweet success of the nip-and-tuck battle.

Downstairs, Madison coach Larry Graham voiced his irritation at the sloppy play throughout the game. He especially let everyone know his disgust on the Trojans' 16 for 29 performance at the free throw line.

"It's getting to the point we're going to have to substitute at the end of the game according to who can make free throws," said Graham sarcastically. "We used to have to take Reggie (Banks) out near the end of the game because he couldn't make free throws."

Graham glanced over at Banks and asked in a low voice, "Remember that Reggie?"

Reggie nodded. Even the game's top scorer, who made 12 of 16 free throws, wasn't spared from the coach's complaints.

But if anyone deserved praise for the victory, Banks would be at the top of the list. He would immediately be followed by Michael Young whose overtime baskets clinched Madison's victory.

In addition to scoring 24 points, Banks blocked the last shot of the game — a bullet from the base line launched by Flyer Sylvester Harold.

East St. Louis coach Coy Nunn complained that Banks fouled his player. In fact, Nunn said the refereeing was unfair throughout the night.

Graham preferred to stay out of the argument.

"It's hard to officiate a close game like that," he said. "I try not to get involved with the refs. I had enough trouble trying to keep our kids' heads up."

Madison seemed a likely winner with four seconds left in regulation time. With the Trojans on top, 52-50, East St. Louis had the ball and called timeout. The Flyers' Ernest Taylor received the inbound pass near the half-court line and somehow managed to dribble through the Madison defense for a shot at the free throw line.

Anxious Madison fans ran onto the court and tossed their confetti, but they didn't see the ball swish through the net at the sound of the buzzer. East St. Louis fans succeeded in making more noise than their counterparts for the first time during the contest.

Young connected for Madison's only two baskets during the overtime. With 38 seconds left in the game and Madison on top 36-35, Valentine was put to the test again. He had a one-and-one free throw opportunity after being fouled by East St. Louis' Joe Davis.

This time, however, Valentine didn't come through. East St. Louis raced downcourt with the rebound and called timeout.

After stalling for about 20 seconds, Harold tossed up the shot that Banks quickly rejected. Anthony Newson killed the final few seconds on the clock by dribbling downcourt.

Perhaps the key play in the game came late in the third quarter when Banks made a slam dunk that brought the crowd and the team back to life.

With 1:15 left in the third quarter, the crowd roared with enthusiasm when the 6-foot-2 center started dribbling toward the basket. They got what they expected and the screams continued for the next 60 seconds.

East St. Louis, on top with a 38-36 lead, stalled until Harold worked his way open with 7 seconds remaining and boosted the Flyers lead back to four.

But Michael Young was off to the races after receiving the ball on the Flyers' free throw line. Before East St. Louis could say, "We're up by four," Valentine had dribbled the length of the court for a layup and helped tighten the score to 40-38 at the end of the quarter.

Once again the fans were on their feet. East St. Louis had hoped to end the quarter with the last bucket and stop the Trojans' momentum. But the strategy backfired, as a hot Madison team came back for two buckets to grab the lead, 42-40.

Madison controlled the remainder of the game, up until the surprise bucket at the end of regulation time.

The victory for the Trojans boosts their record to 21-2 and extended their winning streak to 20 games.

And while the fans upstairs continued celebrating, an exhausted Young laid on the bench in the locker room downstairs.

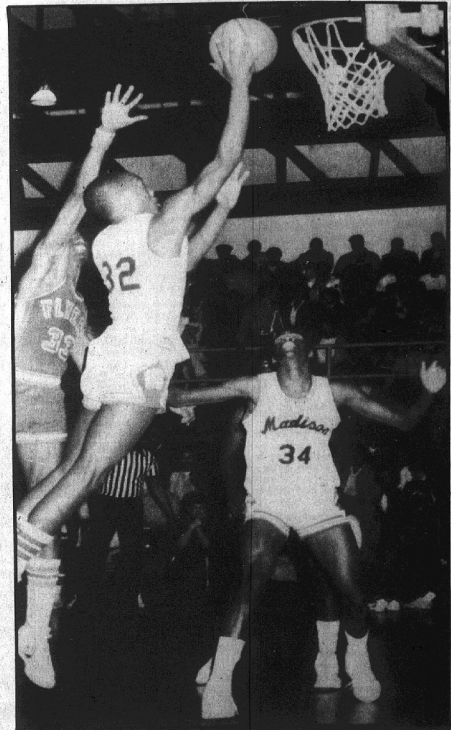

"I never missed so many free throws in my life," he said, seemingly forgetting that his team had won. "I can't believe it."

Graham had obviously succeeded in his post-game lecture — the desire for improvement had been instilled.

'No More Deadlines...'

...Or no SIUE basketball coach yet

EDWARDSVILLE — The naming of a new varsity basketball coach at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been delayed indefinitely, according to an SIUE official.

James R. Buck, director of development and public affairs, said the latest delay centers around "affirmative action" requirements.

Buck had told the Press-Record last week the announcement of a new head coach would probably be made today.

"I'm not going to put any more deadlines on the decision," said Buck at his SIUE office Wednesday.

Buck said extra time will be needed to investigate whether all equal opportunity guidelines are met before any decision is announced.

When asked if the new head coach would be named later this month, Buck responded, "I can't say. It's like asking when a building will be finished. Sometimes the contractors surprise you and finish it right on time. Other times it isn't finished as planned."

Buck was undoubtedly referring to the new gymnasium at SIUE. The formal opening of the gym has not yet been made because of building delays and budget restrictions.

Madison coach Larry Graham has been picked by the area basketball enthusiasts as the top contender for the basketball position, which became vacant when Tom Pugliese quit the post after SIUE dropped plans to convert to Division I in the NCAA. The change forced the cancellation of this year's basketball season.

More than 30 individuals have applied for the opening, with many of the applicants from the Metro-East area. Buck was tight-lipped about ranking any of the applicants as the top contender.

"What's nice about this selection is that all of the candidates have good records," he said. "I'm honored that they all have applied."

Roxana cruises to GCHS team sectional title

Defeats Carbondale, East St. Louis

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER

Sports Editor

of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY High school has long had a reputation for outstanding wrestling teams.

Perhaps that's the reason why the Illinois High School Athletic Association, when awarding sectional wrestling sites, annually chooses Granite City to host one of eight sectionals statewide. And when there's a new format involved, like the first-time team sectional which began this year, there's a second reason for awarding GCHS the sectional. Things will be done properly.

The main reason for Granite City's success on the mats has been its coach, Bill "Red" Schmitt. In addition to Schmitt being a member of the IHSA Wrestling Advisory Committee, the 34-year Warrior mat coach has led his teams to 24 of 27 possible regional titles. Schmitt is perhaps, the winningest high school wrestling coach in Illinois.

And when Schmitt wasn't winning regionals as Granite City High or South High coach, Walt Whitaker, formerly Schmitt's assistant before going on to Granite City North School, was. Whitaker led the Steelers to regional titles in 1982 and 1983, two of the three years when Schmitt's matmen didn't. It's gotten to the point where wrestling and Granite City are synonymous.

But things appear to be changing. For the first time since the regional or district format was introduced almost 30 years ago, a Granite

City high school team has not walked away a regional wrestling champion.

This year a trophy case outside of Granite City will house the regional wrestling championship plaque. Instead, a trophy case located just six miles to the north will store this year's regional championship plaque — Roxana's.

The Shells made winning look easy last weekend when they outdistanced Edwardsville and third-place Granite City to win the Edwardsville Regional. Tuesday evening, in team sectional competition, the Shells made winning look even easier as they belted their way towards the team sectional title with wins over Carbondale and East St. Louis.

Roxana, which has qualified 11 athletes for this weekend's individual sectional, topped past Carbondale 70-0 in the semifinals and East St. Louis Senior 40-21 in the final round. The Flyers eliminated the Springfield Langlier Regional champions, Lincoln High, 36-19 in the other semifinal pairing to set.

Roxana's victory qualifies it for the Illinois Class AA team wrestling title next weekend during the state tournament in Champaign.

"It's great. I've waited a long time for this," said Larry Milazzo, Roxana's 14-year coach. "When you win something like this, something that you never thought you would, it's really great."

"These kids never quit," Milazzo said referring to his wrestlers.

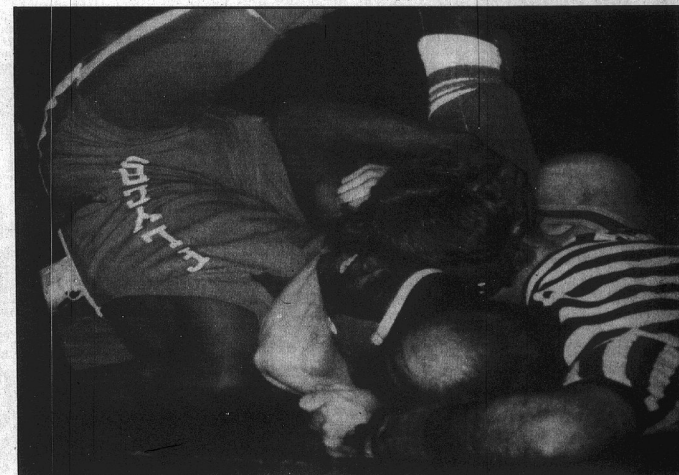

"They made a believer out of me. In the beginning of the season, I thought they'd be 500 or less. But they just kept winning."

The Shells, now 17-2, are one of the eight teams which will vie for the Class AA team championship. Roxana will meet Glenbard North in first-round team action, the winner of the Carol Stream Team Sectional. The Glenbard North Spartans are 20-3 this season.

Other teams winning sectional titles include Hoffman Estates (Cant), 18-4, of the Bensenville (Fenn) Sectional; Palos Hills (Stagg), 17-0, of the Chicago Heights Sectional; Joliet West, 10-7, of the Normal (Community) Sectional; Woodstock High, 20-0, of the Palatine (Fremd) Sectional; East Moline United, 22-1, of the Pekin Sectional, and the yet to be announced team winner of the Chicago Public League.

Roxana's rise to prominence in wrestling did not come overnight. In fact, simply because of Granite City's dominance in the sport, the Shells for so long have succeeded in the shadow of Granite City's wrestling program.

Since the 1971-72 season, the Shells have been the best wrestling team in its conference, the Mississippi Valley Conference. In fact, no other MVC team has ever won the title away from the Shells. They've created a wrestling dynasty which currently reigns supreme. Only the Warriors, during their heyday as a member of the Southwestern Conference can boast of more conference crowns.

WIN BY FALL. Roxana's 119 pounder, Shawn Zipprich, scored a victory Tuesday night in the third period of his match with East St. Louis' Carlos Moore. Above, Zipprich works the cradle while eventually led to Moore's defeat in 4:43. Roxana went on to win the team title by posting a 70-0 victory over Carbondale and a 40-21 win over East St. Louis.

But Tuesday evening there were no Warriors on the mats representing this area. Only Shells.

With the aid of five forfeitures, the Shells made short order of semifinal-round opponent Carbondale. In fact, the Terriers, coached by former Warrior wrestler Dennis Ragan, managed just two individual points.

In fairness to Ragan and his team, the Terriers are better than their blistering 70-0 defeat to Roxana.

"We're saving our individual qualification for this weekend," Ragan began. "We knew the strengths of the teams here. Why risk injuring our guys for this? It was a bit of strategy on our part."

Ragan's strategy, however, didn't impress Milazzo. The Shells' coach chided Ragan for his decision to forfeit the matches which featured his sectional qualifiers.

"If that's his strategy, I have to disagree with it," Milazzo said. "I can understand not wanting to risk injury at this point in the season, but also it becomes very important for wrestlers to get any and all experience possible going into this sectional competition."

"I guess it involves two schools of thought," Milazzo said.

There must be something to Milazzo's strategy. The Shells have qualified 11 athletes for this weekend's sectional tournament. Granite City and nearby Edwardsville have each qualified seven.

For Granite City, there will be two champions, three second-place and two third place finishers from last weekend's regional in sectional competition Friday.

Regional champions for the Warriors include Mark Dowdy, 17-1-1, at 155 pounds, and Greg Nemeth, 27-4, at 119 pounds. Second-place finishers include Jeff Cotter, 29-3, 98 pounds; Mark Whitaker, 15-9, at 145 pounds; and Steve Knogl, 24-10, at 167 pounds.

Granite City's final two sectional qualifiers include third-place regional finishers Gary Mann and Tom Sparks. Mann, at 105 pounds, is 18-15 this season while Sparks, at 133 pounds, is 12-8-2.

Sectional action will begin Friday at 6 p.m. and continue on Saturday at noon followed by the third-place and championship competition at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Stars edge Sanford-Brown, 109-110

By CHARLIE SKAER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Sanford-Brown Coach John Campbell and Granite City Center coach Larry Graham exchanged barbs on the sidelines after the Stars' 109-101 victory Monday evening.

"We haven't practiced in over two weeks," complained Campbell. "We don't have a gym of our own to play in."

Graham, with a half-smile, countered, "Hey coach, it's been real nice outdoors. So that's no excuse."

Campbell, intent on getting in the last word, said, "You know, I'm the only coach in the United States where our players get lost going to their home games. We play at three different locations and twice this year we had players that couldn't find the right gym."

Welcomed to college basketball. Although it may not have the excellence as Big 10 ball, the sport is just as exciting for the Stars' fans enjoying their first year of home-town action during the team's inaugural season.

Both coaches at Monday's outing expected inspired performances from their players, but neither was blessed with such success.

"We made this team look like a million bucks," said Graham, referring to the Sanford-Brown Indians from St. Ann, Mo. "We just didn't play any defense."

Granite City couldn't stop the Indians scoring machine. Jim Montgomery, who finished with 37 points. Four other Sanford-Brown players also finished in double figures.

Yet what the Indians had in scoring, they lacked in ball control. The team made a whopping 24 turnovers, most of which came on bad passes during fast breaks.

"Our kids aren't patient enough," said Campbell. "I wanted them to slow down and spread out."

The same could be said for Granite City Center, whose run-and-gun style of ball highly resembles Graham's strategy at Madison High School's game plan. As Campbell put it, "After all, half the team is from Madison."

Not quite, as only Patrick Hatter, Cavel Claggett and Koryn Stanley are former Trojans. While Collinsville native Marc Parker topped the Stars with 28 points, close behind were Hatter with 27 and Claggett with 27. Stanley finished with 8.

Granite City was on top throughout the entire game, at one point leading by as many as 14 points. But the never-say-die Indians capitalized on Granite City mistakes and tied the game at 61-61.

An angry Graham shouted a few commands that brought the Stars back on the winning track. A full-court defense forced Sanford-Brown to make five turnovers while Granite City connected on six baskets to take a 12-point lead.

The Indians stayed in the game by making seven of their last nine shots, but Granite City countered by making 11 of 14 free throws.

The victory upped Granite City's record to 17-5, with just two regular season games remaining. The Stars will host State Community College of East St. Louis on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and will travel to McKeandree.

Inter-City baseball sets March meeting

There has been a meeting called for Sunday, March 4, at 1 p.m. at the Maryville Firehouse for those teams wishing to participate in the Illinois Inter-City Baseball League this summer.

According to Earl Scharden, league president, the league will be bigger and better in 1984. In addition to the three teams which ended the league last year, Scharden says five more teams have shown interest in competing in this summer's league.

In addition to McDonald's, Granite City Chiefs and the Maryville Red Sox, newcomers to the league include the Brooklyn Royals, a team from East Alton, Cahokia, O'Fallon and a combined team from Belleville and Cahokia.

Persons seeking further information about the summer leagues should call Scharden at 877-1415 or attend the March 4 meeting.

Croatia Home hosts dance to benefit team

The Croatia Home Lodge 222 is sponsoring a dance Friday, Feb. 24 to raise money to benefit its basketball team.

According to spokesman Gary Gravelle, the home is sponsoring the dance to raise money so the organization may attend the Croatian Fraternal Union National Basketball Tournament in Ferrell, Penn., April 13-17. Two teams from the Madison lodge plan on making the trip.

Entertainment for the evening will be provided by Dave Hylla and the Good Times Band. Tickets are being sold for $2 each and may be obtained from Gravelle or the Croatia Home, located at Tenth and Madison Streets in Madison.

Maroons hand Warriors eighth loss

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

BELLEVILLE — The Granite City Warrior girls' basketball team record suffered another setback Tuesday night as the Warriors fell to the Belleville West Maroons 78-58. The loss drops Granite City's record to 4-8.

The game looked to be a high scoring contest from the very beginning as the Maroons outscored the Warriors 30-18 in the first quarter. Most of West's points came as a result of steals on the press.

Although the Warriors did a good job of scoring themselves, their defense allowed the Maroons to move to an insurmountable lead. The Warrior press was their own worst enemy as the Maroons worked around it and used it to their own advantage.

Several times the Warriors were caught with no one under the basket, which understandably, frustrated Warrior Coach Gordon Galbreath.

"We really need to work on the press," said Warrior Coach Gordon Galbreath. "We're either going to have to come off the darn thing or run it right. We kept leaving it open in the back."

Galbreath said the toughest part of his team's schedule is still ahead of the Warriors and his team is going to have to start putting in more hours.

"We have to start working this week to get ready for the remainder of the season," said Galbreath. With the schedule we have coming up we're going to have to start putting in more time.

"If we start having some good practices, we should be able to get a couple of more games," he added.

The Warriors were unable to mount any kind of attack in the second quarter. The Maroons had increased their lead to 25 points, 48-23, when Nel Patton, one of West's best ball handlers and top scorers, left the game with four fouls. The Warriors were able to score the next eight points making the half-time score 48-31.

The Maroons increased their lead to 25 points after the third quarter. Dawn Elsar, Belleville's high scorer with 24 points, added six of her points during the third quarter.

Things began to brighten for the Warriors in the final quarter as they outscored the Maroons 17-12. Lisa Lilley led the Warriors adding six of her 22 points during the fourth quarter.

But, despite Lilley's efforts West still led by 25 points with 1:45 left on the clock. The Warriors made five points in the last minute and a half to cut the Maroons win to 20 points.

Tonight, the Warriors head neighboring Wood River. Action begins at 6 p.m.

Sports of all Sorts

Sometimes a question will do

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

It is odd what different columns will bring out the most response in letters and phone calls.

My recent opus on Harry Gallatin and the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team's trip up to Macomb, Ill., to play the Leathernecks of Western Illinois University, for some strange reason triggered an unusually heavy response from my readers.

One came from Mike Connell, who was my student statistician when I was the Cougars' Sports Information Director (from 1969 through 1981).

Frequently, in a joking manner, of course, he'd lay claim to being related to Fort Lauderdale (Florida) great pro soccer star, from Great Britain, Mike Connell. He wasn't, of course, a relative of the great English star.

Anyway, he was in the staff car of SIUE with me after Cougars had played and beaten Eastern Illinois U. at Charleston on the Tuesday afternoon on the Panthers' soggy and muddy field.

The game was slow and marred by frequent delays, which annoyed me more than somewhat since Tuesday evenings then and now, is my night to play bridge with a group of men with whom I've battled the pasteboards with for well over 30 years.

So, as we were scooting briskly along U.S. Interstate 57 toward home I must confess I frequently topped the 55 MPH limit in attempt to get home in time not to delay the start of my weekly bridge session.

And, since it was the accustomed thing, I hadn't noticed it, but Mike called my attention to the fact that while was exceeding the national speed limit, the over-the-road trucks routinely were passing us as if we were standing still.

So, imagine my chagrin when halfway home I looked out of me and saw the red flashing light atop of an Illinois State police car drawing up behind me and signaling me to pull over.

As the young patrolman was writing out my ticket, I somewhat foreborely asked, "Officer, just as a matter of curiosity, do you have orders to ignore the big trucks which seem to ignore the speed laws. What's the story?"

I went on explain that at least 10 trucks had passed us — all breaking the speed laws — and in fact, at least two in the space of time that he had fallen in behind me.

I was sitting in his patrol car with the crackling radio and had a clear look at his face as he reacted to my question. His face turned as red as the flashing light atop of his auto and he, dramatically, pulled my ticket from his clipboard and tore it up.

Turning to me, without explanation of any sort, he admonished me, "Mister Barnes, do me a favor, please keep your speed under 60 miles. And continue safe driving."

To this day, I don't know, for sure, whether or not, the big trucks enjoy a special consideration by the Illinois Highway police. I'm sure they don't, but sometimes you wonder.

St. Pat's Day run is slated

A field of more than 4,500 runners, which would establish a new St. Louis record for participants in a running event, are expected to compete in the sixth annual St. Patrick's Day Parade Run through the streets of downtown St. Louis on March 17.

Referred to as "The Great International Race," the five-mile fun run is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at Ninth and Market Streets. The finish line for the run will be in front of the Old Courthouse.

Serious runners will participate in the competitive category, which will have 10 categories for men and women. The competition categories are: 13 and under; 14 to 19; 20 to 24; 25 to 29; 30 to 34; 35 to 39; 40 to 44; 45 to 49; 50 to 59; and 60 and over.

The entry fee for the Budweiser St. Patrick's Day Parade Run is $4 if the entry is received prior to March 10, 1984. Entries mailed prior to March 10 should be addressed to St. Patrick's Day Parade Committee, c/o C. R. Frank Popcorn and Supply Company, 2311 Chestnut Street, St. Louis, MO 63103.

The late entry fee is $7. Late entries must be made in person at the C. R. Frank Popcorn and Supply Company between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on March 10, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16.

For additional information on the St. Patrick's Day Parade Run, persons should call 314-231-2598 between noon and 4 p.m. through March 16.

VA offering health field scholarships

The Veterans Administration is now accepting applications for its health Professional Scholarship program, which provides support for baccalaureate and master's nursing students on a pay-back-in-service basis.

The VA scholarship provides tuition, educational expenses and a monthly stipend for participants who agree to serve a minimum of two years as a full-time registered nurse in one of the VA's 172 medical facilities.

Approximately $3.6 million dollars is available for scholarships for the 1984-85 school years. Awards are made to third and fourth-year baccalaureate nursing students and to master's degree candidates in specialties needed by the Veterans Administration. These specialties are gerontology, medical-surgical, adult, psychiatric-mental health, rehabilitation, and nursing service administration.

Information about the program is available from the VA Health Professional Scholarship Program, Office of Academic Affairs, DM&S (14N), 810 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420. Requests for an application package may be made to the Scholarship Program Office between Feb. 27 and May 11, 1984. Completed applications must be received by the Scholarship Program Office no later than June 1, 1984.

Dixon named to Armed Services Committee

Senator Alan J. Dixon has been named to serve on the Senate Armed Services Committee, filling the vacancy created by the death of Senator Henry M. "Scoop" Jackson. Dixon is the first senator from Illinois to serve on Armed Services since the committee was established in 1946.

"I am very pleased that the Democratic Steering Committee has seen fit to name me to this important committee," Dixon said. "The Defense Department spends billions of dollars each year and serving on this committee will give me the change to go over proposed expenditures in detail."

"Although I consider myself a supporter of a strong national defense, I also believe the Pentagon must spend the taxpayers' money prudently. That means it must maximize the use of competitive bidding on contracts and it must seek to bring greater regional balance to its spending patterns," he said.

Dixon pointed out that Illinois ranks 48th among the states in per capita spending of defense dollars, and it ranks 51st among the states and the District of Columbia in the return of tax dollars sent to Washington. (In 1982, Illinois paid 5.7 percent of the federal tax bill and received back 3.8 percent of all federal spending.)

"The Pentagon budget represents more than a third of all federal spending," Dixon said, adding, "Our state and region needs a strong voice on the Armed Services Committee. I can provide that voice."

Arbor Foundation giving away trees

The National Arbor Day Foundation is giving three free Black Walnut trees to new Foundation members joining during February.

The free trees are part of the Foundation's effort to promote tree planting throughout America.

Black Walnut trees were chosen for this campaign because of their value and versatility, according to the foundation. The walnut trees bear sweet, edible nuts and they are also used for shade trees, growing to 80 to 100 feet. Walnut hardwood is very valuable for making furniture and cabinets.

The National Arbor Day Foundation will give three Black Walnut trees to new members contributing $10 during February.

The trees will be two to three feet tall and will be sent postage paid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting this spring. The foundation makes its spring shipments between Feb. 1 and May 31, depending on the local climate and this year's weather. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation, and to receive the free trees, interested persons may send a $10 membership contribution to "Free Walnut Trees," National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68410, by Feb. 29.

BURGLAR FLEES WITH RIFLE

A burglar who ran away carrying a gymnasium bag took a $250 rifle with a mounted telescope, a clip, ammunition, ten 1922-1923 silver dollars and two gold chain necklaces from the Warren Bequette home, 2319 Pontoon Road, last week. The thief fled from the kitchen when Mr. and Mrs. Bequette arrived home. Entry had been gained by breaking a door.

Community Events

February is designated American History month

February is American History Month, according to members of the Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the DAR, who reminds people that history is a list of events which will or can shape the future. American history tells the story of the United States of America which is made up of native-born and naturalized citizens of many races and creeds. For a few minutes study the lives of many of our patriots, our heroes, our heroines—who came from many different backgrounds.

Most people have heard of Robert's Rules of Order, the official guide for conducting meetings of all types. Have you heard of Jefferson's Manual? Thomas Jefferson compiled his own rules of parliamentary procedure for his use while presiding over the senate as vice president of the United States from 1797-1801. Later, these same rules were adopted as basic rules by both Houses of Congress.

George Mason (1725-1792) is known for writing the Declaration of Rights. He was a member of the Virginia Convention in May, 1776. Thomas Jefferson referred to this document as he wrote the Declaration of Independence. Mason was the author of our Bill of Rights.

Francis Hopkinson (1737-1791), one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, proclaimed himself to be America's first native composer. The manuscript of his song, "My Days Have Been So Wondrous Free," is dated 1759. He was also a lawyer, a judge, and secretary of the Navy. John Adams, in a letter to his wife Abigail, wrote: "I am apt to believe that July 4, 1776, will be celebrated, by succeeding generations, as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows (shows), games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires, and illuminations from one end of this continent to the other from this time forward forever more."

The DAR urges everyone to study some American history this month.

First birthday of Stacey Curless

Stacey Curless celebrated her first birthday at a party given during the weekend by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve (Linda) Curless in their home, 2419 Madison Ave.

A Garfield motif and clusters of balloons provided the party decorations. After the honoree opened her gifts a dessert luncheon was served by the hosts to Lori and Mike Finch, Robbie and Jamie Finch, Charles Davis, Daria Modlin, Peggy and Jimmy Modlin, Angie and Diana Miller, Ross Curless, Debbie Finch, Alesia Pointer, Juanita and David Ryan, Jerry Ryan, Sherry and Janet Wyld, Kathy, Rob, Amy, Kristopher, and Kristina Modlin, Alberta Eltington, Alice and Wayne Gibson, Kathy McCre, Eva and Krystal Turnbough, Bob and Jane Curless and Donna and Jeff Curless.

Sisters share shower honors

A dual bridal shower was hosted during the weekend at the First Assembly of God Church hall for Linda Maclos, a pharmacist at St. Mary's Hospital in Kansas City, Mo., and her sister, Donna Maclos, an assistant loan officer at Illinois Federal Savings and Loan in Fairview Heights.

The event was hosted by the girls' grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Maclos and an aunt, Mrs. Jo Ann Maclos. Decorations in the hall were in shades of burgundy and pink. Paper streamers, bells and arrangement of fresh and silk flowers.

Both sisters will be married at 5 p.m. March 17 at the First United Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Richard Kent Hunt officiating.

Donna will become the bride of Michael Schabert, an engineering student at Southern Illinois University and Linda will be married to Stanley Cleveland, a firefighter of the Lee's Summit (Mo.) Fire Department.

Among the local guests was the mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Norma Maclos and from out of town, the groom's mothers, Ethel Cleveland of Clinton, Mo. and Betty Gotthardt of Addicksville, Ill.

Other out of town guests included, Linda Wells, Nicole Wells of High Ridge, Mo., Alma Huelkoetter, Okaville, Ill., Jesse Tesson, Cary and Michelle Sexton, St. Louis, Irene Kraus, New Baden, Ill., Bernice Caldwell, Ellis Prairie, Mo., Elma Knobeloch and Alice Smith of Weymouth, Mo., Millicie Glenn, Edwardsville and Maryellen Brake of Alton.

Prizes were presented to those whose gifts were being opened at the time signaled. The honorees were assisted in opening gifts by their bridesmaids, Karen Maclos, Jan Juneau, Leslie Jones and Linda Wells assisted Linda and Karen Maclos, Karla Foote, Laura Fineschreiber helped Donna.

Attendance prizes were won by Carla Crow and Julie Maclos.

MAKE TODAY COUNT SESSION

Make Today Count will meet Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 7 p.m. at St. Anthony's Hospital, Alton. The topic will be "Expressing Love in Creative Ways During Times of Trial." The Rev. Dr. Clyde M. Nabe of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will lead the discussion and answer questions. Make Today Count is a support group of people who have encountered a life-threatening illness personally, as a family member, or as a friend.

DeMolay mothers to assist at annual chili supper

Mrs. Debbie Pritchett presided over the February meeting of the DeMolay Mothers Club as plans were finalized to assist the DeMolay Chapter with its annual chili supper. The fund raising event is open to the public and will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 21, at the Masonic Temple. Members of the club will donate homemade desserts and furnish items to sell at the white elephant booth in conjunction with the supper. Anyone who can volunteer to provide a dessert is to contact Ginny Cotter at 797-0254, the president announced.

To open the session Mazie Ishum offered the Mother's Prayer and the president welcomed guests, Shelly Carner, Marilyn Bodnam, Beth Bodnam who is DeMolay Sweetheart.

Evone Whitford and Gladys Whitford, mother and aunt of initiate Bobby Whitford.

On Feb. 24-26 the mothers will meet in Springfield for the DeMolay Ritual Weekend Workshop. Anyone planning on attending is to contact Mary Stuart, state Mother's Club president, at 797-0404.

Refreshments in a Valentine motif were served by Mrs. Stuart, Pat Tsigolaroff, Jo Meyer, Betty Ebrechle and Marilyn Bodnam to those named and to Margaret Glendening, Hilda Few, Doris Payne, Donna Mueller, Martha Simpson, Beverly Singleton and Charlotte Mize.

The next meeting is set for March 6 at 7 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 20th Street and Cleveland Boulevard.

AARP Chapter enrolls 18

During the monthly membership meeting of Granite City Chapter 1340, American Association of Retired Persons, 18 new members were enrolled into the organization.

They include, Mildred Achor, Zita and Warren Bequette, Mary and Tally Evans, Joseph and Lorraine Hall, Mildred Kraus, Albert and Cecelia Manion, Maynard Mercer, Marcel Patton, Christeen Roberts, Dorothy and Earl Schardian, June Stucke, Hazel Turt, and Veronica Wagner.

President Bernice Mercer welcomed the members and guests at the session held in the Township Hall. Opening prayer was given by Ruby Corbitt followed by all reciting the pledge to the flag.

Minutes of a previous meeting was read by the secretary and the treasurer's report was given by Juanita Crawford in the absence of Florence Austin.

Mrs. Marge Hall announced 111 members paid dues for the year, and Ann Fare reviewed community services available to senior citizens.

Refreshments were served to 268 in attendance and special prizes were awarded to the winners. The Alley Cats provided music for an evening of dancing after the meeting and those selected as the best dancers included George and Delphine Stone, Jess and Lena Brumigan and Paul and Vivian Danco.

Care of house plants is club program

Mrs. Mary Kristian delivered a program on the proper light various house plants need to grow at the February meeting of the Gardeners Garden Club, held last week in the home of Mrs. Charles Kohl.

The program speaker emphasized plants grown in different parts of the country have different light requirements and need special care.

The horticulture portion of the meeting was under the direction of Mrs. William Long. Members present contributed information on the Philodendron plant, which was designated the house plant of the month. It was noted this is one of the most commonly grown houseplants. The name is derived from two words, philos, which means to love, and dendron, which means a tree. This combination of the two words refers to the plants tree climbing habit.

Members enjoyed a soup and chowder lunch served by the hostess prior to the business session presided over by Mrs. Richard Kerch, club president.

The secretary read a letter from the Lincoln Memorial Gardens, located in Springfield, Ill., announcing the start of a fund drive, to enable the gardens to renovate the existing buildings at the location, and to reinstate some of the programs and services that have been discontinued, due to a lack of funds.

The local club has maintained a membership at the garden for a number of years and a discussion was held regarding ways to increase their support this year.

Mrs. Kerch announced the March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Al Malotki and she reminded the officers and committee chairmen this is the club's annual meeting and reports are to be submitted.

Others attending were Mesdames John Farrell, Jerry Arbeiter, C. E. Eads and Leo Schank.

EXECUTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the executive committee of Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission (SIMAPC) will be held tonight at Rousto's Restaurant in Collinsville, beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The IRS people are going to get theirs. But they'll get less if you have an IRA.

You can put up to $2,000 of your annual earnings into one of our high interest bearing IRA plans before April 15, and deduct a like amount from your 1983 income. (With a non-working spouse you can deduct up to $2,250. Working couples can deduct up to $4,000.) And if you do it before April 15, the IRS will get less of the money you worked so hard for during 1983.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When a person fails to perform under a contract, the other party can seek money damages in a lawsuit. Frequently, however, there is another option available to the injured party. In some situations, the injured party can seek "specific performance." This involves seeking a court order to force the party who breached the contract to comply with the terms of the contract.

One type of contract which is subject to specific performance is a contract involving the sale of land. In one case, a seller and buyer entered into a real estate contract to sell a home valued at $150,000. After the contract was signed, the seller proceeded to purchase another home in another geographical area where he was being transferred. A few days later the original buyer decided to back out of the original real estate contract. At this point, the seller found himself in a difficult situation in that he owned two homes.

The original seller had a choice of suing the original buyer for money damages arising from the breach of contract or for specific performance. He could, for instance, attempt to find another buyer for his first home. If he sold the home at a loss, the money damages he could recover from the original buyer who backed out of the contract would be the difference between the first sale price and the second sale price. If the court ordered specific performance, on the other hand, the buyer would be forced to proceed with the purchase of the home. Which option the seller chose would depend upon exactly what he wanted to accomplish.

Generally speaking, specific performance of a contract will only be granted where money damages do not provide an adequate remedy. In the above example regarding real estate, money damages would not necessarily meet the needs of the seller. It may be important for him to be able to force the buyer to proceed with the contract.

In some matters, the courts have determined that specific performance should not be available to the injured party. One such area involves employment contracts. For instance, if there is an employment contract and the employee quits the job, the employer will not be allowed to sue for specific performance to force the worker to continue in his employment. This is based on a policy consideration by the courts that individuals should not be forced to work for employers against their will.

The following scouts were presented with patches for participating in the Order of the Arrow "Klondike Derby" winter event held recently at Wilson Park; Brian Forbes, Eric Wofford, Tom Senecyn, Jeff Wiehard, Steve Poling, Ron Fields, Jason Fields, Tim Chandler, Eric Warnhoff, Mike Hansen, Richard Schardan, Tom Moslander, Mike McConnell, and adult leaders, Jack Dawson, Tom Senecyn, and Ron Fields.

A troop committee report and introduction of committee members was given by Chairman Pat Busch. The closing ceremony was conducted by the Cobra Patrol followed by refreshments.

The next events for the troop will be a campout at the Lion's Den on Feb. 18-19, and a day hike and horseback riding in March, it was announced.

Girl Scouts Career Day scheduled

The regional Career Day, co-sponsored by River Bluffs Girl Scout Council and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is expected to attract 1000 Girl Scouts between the age 12 and 17 at the event scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 18, at SIUE.

Representing troops from Southwestern Illinois and the St. Louis metropolitan area, the girls will have opportunities to visit more than 100 exhibits, and to discuss possibilities with career specialists and professionals in at least 75 fields as well as SIUE institutional representatives.

Theme for the program is "The Sky's The Limit in 1984" and is open for the first time to girls from the entire St. Louis area in both Illinois and Missouri.

All planned activities will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 2:30 p.m. and will include campus tours conducted by the University Ambassadors, a luncheon, and a "career carnival."

Each participant will be required to pay $2.50 that will include an event patch and program materials. They also are to bring a sack lunch.

Five counties, Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Cahoon and Jersey is included in the River Bluffs area, as well as some areas of Clinton, Macoupin and Randolph counties. The St. Louis Council is comprised of St. Louis city and county and 11 other regional counties in Missouri.

St. Elizabeth Scouts hear 'Jungle Tales'

St. Elizabeth School Cub Scout Pack 13 conducted a "Jungle Tales" theme, meeting in the church cafeteria.

Den 1 performed a puppet show with puppets crafted by the Cubs.

Den 2 told a story featuring sound effects about "Wonderful Wilfred Woodpecker."

Dens 3 and 4 read reports and showed posters of jungle animals.

Several of the dens outlined past activities, including a visit to the Magic House, a police station and a craft shop for Den 2. Den 3 had made Christmas ornaments, painted with oil colors and made sun catchers. Den 4 had learned how to use tools and had made coat racks.

Awards given were: Wolf badges, Jason Lee and Steve Lubak; Scholar and Forester awards, Doug Buehrer, Stanley Gregory and Stanley Kromray, and Scholar awards to Jason Scrum, Shawn Hayes, Robert Haack and Matt Loftus.

The Pack 13 chili supper will take place between 4 and 7 p.m. on Feb. 25, including all-you-can-eat homemade chili or chili-mac, hot dog sandwich, dessert and drink for $2.75. Hot dog sandwiches may be purchased separately. Carryouts will be available.

Health symposium at SIUE for River Bluff Girl Scouts

The River Bluffs Girl Scout Council is hosting a health symposium on Feb. 25th, and the one day event is scheduled at the Midland Ballroom, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Various health officials will distribute information to Girl Scouts in the following areas: Edwardsville, Collinsville, Granite City, Maryville, Madison, Venice, Troy, Marine, St. Jacob, Glen Carbon, Worden, Alhambra, Grantfork and Highland.

Some of the agencies featured will be: American Cancer Society,

American Red Cross, American Optometric Association and the Easter Seal Society.

Each organization has prepared special activities for the Girl Scout members. Plans include making pocket first aid kits, distribution of helium balloons, and playing safety games.

One thousand Girl Scouts and their leaders are expected to attend, according to council officials. For information contact Barbara Maynard at (618) 692-0692 or 345-1606.

Mrs. McCauley reviews book

Mrs. Dorothy McCauley reviewed Beatrice Lily's autobiography entitled, "Everywhere In A Lady" at the monthly meeting of Bay View Reading Club held in the home of Mrs. Velma Gruen.

Valentine decorations in traditional red and white were used, by the hostess, for table appointments.

Mrs. Gruen served luncheon to the guest speaker and to Mesdames E. M. Aronovitz, Arthur Buehner, Herman Huxel, A. Krumsiek, Chris Louis, Dale Rea, James Stuart and Miss Frances Lynch.

Mother's Club donates to local projects

Members of the Lincoln Place Mother's Club agreed to donate funds to local projects during its February meeting held in the Community Center.

Contributions in the amount of $50 were sent to the H.E.L.P. Center and to the Joseph Gonzales Scholarship Fund. Mrs. St. Ivany also donated a gift to the St. Elizabeth Medical Center Auxiliary bingo games, to be awarded to patients who play the game, via television, while hospitalized.

President Irene Goede opened the session with a prayer and pledge to the flag, followed by Secretary Rose Merchoff and Treasurer Virginia Kittel, giving their monthly reports.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by Mrs. Goede and Janice Crow to 15 members. Games were played and prizes won by Mrs. Merchoff, Rose Schmitt, Josephine Vangel, Lennie Lore, Verna Michel, Mrs. Paul, Anna Kuruz, Bertha Kittler, Mrs. St. Ivany and Ann Veloff.

FOOTBALL FIELD DAMAGED AT PRATHER JUNIOR HIGH

The Prather Junior High School football field was damaged by a 1960 auto, which was found Monday unoccupied and stuck in mud, with a tow rope attached to the rear bumper. Deep ruts were noted in the vicinity of the car and it appeared that a second vehicle also had been driven.

The vehicle was towed and traced to a 17-year-old who said he accidentally drove off the gravel parking lot and became mired in mud. The operator of a four-wheel drive vehicle had attempted to pull him out without success, he told police. The youth and his father agreed to pay damages and no charges were filed.

BUSINESS AFTER HOURS

GATHERING ON FEB. 28

"Business After Hours," an informal gathering of businesspersons, will be sponsored by the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association from 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28, at the Tower Building of the Ralston Purina Co.

Admission is by business card.

The host, Ralston Purina, will have its purchasers on hand to discuss the company's purchasing needs. There will be table-top displays by several RCGA member companies.

Simond, Rock, Burris, Seith seek Senate nomination

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

A difficult choice faces Quad-City Democratic voters March 20 in choosing a U.S. Senatorial nominee. All four major candidates have some links to the local electorate.

Paul Simon is the best known here, having represented this community in the Illinois legislature as representative and state senator before advancing to lieutenant governor and then becoming the southernmost Illinois congressman ten years ago.

Senator Philip Rock, president of the Illinois Senate, has the endorsement of the Illinois State Democratic Central Committee to represent the party Nov. 8 against the Republican standard-bearer, either Sen. Charles H. Percy or Cong. Thomas Corcoran.

State Comptroller Roland W. Burris has a long record as an efficient state official and as an effective vote-getter.

Alex Seith, a Hinsdale Democrat, and lawyer, waged a nearly-successful campaign against Sen. Percy six years ago.

Also on the primary ballot this year is Gerald M. Rose. He will not win, but some people are convinced that any of the other four aspirants could triumph in razor-close competition.

Simon is the people's choice, based on public opinion polls. Sen. Rock is sure to get strong Cook County area support.

Burris' popularity could deny many votes to Rock, giving Simon the overall advantage. Or Burris himself could gain the nomination.

The one talking with most confidence is Sen. Rock. As the party professional's endorsed candidate, he is a potential winner.

Knowing that U.S. Senator Alan Dixon, a Democrat, could serve for many years, Rock and the other candidates feel that this is the decisive year for their own Senate hopes.

Cong. Simon can and does point to his Washington legislative experience and his long stay in public office. He nearly always wears a bow tie and such is the focus of the program of a major fund-raising dinner held for him in Chicago this winter.

His lieutenant governor victory was his own. In 1968, before the two top nominees ran as a team on the ballot, Simon captured the No. 2 post as a Democrat and Edward Ogilvie was elected governor of Illinois as a Republican.

The two worked well together. They seemed destined to be rivals in 1972, but "walking" Daniel Walker narrowly upset Simon in the gubernatorial primary (40,000 votes out of 1,500,000) even though Simon had the state Democratic endorsement.

Walker then defeated Ogilvie, who had the onus of having signed the law creating an Illinois state income tax.

An active ombudsman (people's representative) as lieutenant governor, Simon also has been a hard-working legislator, first in Springfield and then in Washington.

Only this week, he issued a study showing that national governmental budget deficits "have cost Illinois 75,000 jobs since 1961 and will destroy an additional 200,000 Illinois jobs by 1990 if nothing is done to contain them."

Simon said this state's "heavy mix of capital-intensive manufacturing and export-related industries magnifies the impact of budget deficits on the economy."

"The deficits have crippled Illinois' economy by keeping interest rates and artificially inflating the value of the dollar, keeping our unemployment hovering at 10 percent, despite signs of recovery in other parts of the country."

"The artificial strength of the dollar acts as the equivalent of a tax on American exports and a subsidy for foreign imports. This has especially hurt our state's agriculture, machine tool, auto and steel industries. Farm exports are down 17 percent from 1981 levels."

Although countless organizations favor Simon for the nomination, Christian Voice has rallied congressmen on their 1983 votes on 12 "moral and family issues" and given him a zero.

As the Wall Street Journal sees it, the rating is inappropriate: "Simon, a liberal Democrat, is respected as a 'Boy Scout' on ethical issues. GOP Cong. Dan Crane of Illinois, censured for an affair with a female page, rated 100 percent with Christian Voice. A partial explanation is that Simon missed Crane's censure vote and Crane voted present."

Simon in his campaign talks is asserting that needy students are being asked to rely too heavily on loans. Chairman of the House Education subcommittee on higher education, he proposes expansion and restructuring of federal aid to students.

Along with big increases in federal grants, he urges tighter restrictions on subsidized student loans.

A resident of Makanda (near Carbondale), Simon comments that pressure to borrow for college tuition could increase the number of loan defaults—and also persuade debt-burdened students to seek high-paying jobs instead of entering the public sector for teaching and similar work.

Now 55, the Eugene, Ore., native moved to Highland with his parents in 1948. His mother lives in Collinsville. His late father was a missionary to China (before Paul Simon was born) and later a Lutheran pastor at Okawville.

The candidate's wife, Jeanne, was part of the first husband-wife team in the General Assembly; she was a state representative from 1957 to 1961 and they were married in 1960. Sheila Simon is 23 and Martin Simon is 20.

Mrs. Simon has joined the staff of Illinois Attorney General Neil F. Hartigan. She works in Washington—in an office of the National Association of Attorneys General—and represents Hartigan on East Coast issues, particularly the field of federal grants.

Cong. Simon edited the Troy Tribune and also owned several other small newspapers. He was among those testifying before the Kefauver Commission in the early 1950s on organized crime in Madison and St. Louis counties.

He served two years in the Army as a counter-intelligence agent. His elective service included the Illinois House of Representatives from 1962-69, lieutenant governor 1969-73 and U.S. House 1974 to the present. Simon taught history and government in 1973 at Sangamon State University and lectured at Harvard University.

The author of eight books, Simon has written articles for a number of newspapers and magazines. He is well known for his advocacy of increased foreign language training.

During his years in state government, he wrote a weekly column distributed to more than 300 newspapers.

His current column has received wide praise. In one of those columns, he said he enjoyed working with "good congressmen" Corcoran, now a possible opponent of Simon for the Senate.

The Congressional district from which Simon is retiring, the 22nd, was altered in the 1980s to include part of St. Clair County. Although he had a close race four years ago, the loss was regarded as a relatively safe Democratic seat. His likely successor is State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee.

Although the district is mainly rural, it includes Springfield and his record "shows much greater sensitivity to urban problems than the record of the senator from Cook County."

Simon and his fellow Democratic candidates are urging "restraint in arms spending and concern for the poor and middle-income citizens rather than for the wealthy."

Senate Pres. Rock, who lacks statewide name recognition, was chairman of the state party organization that endorsed him. That sense stepped down from that position.

An Oak Park resident, Rock has never run statewide. Much better known in Downstate, he is Rock. Simon holds the endorsement of 70 of the 102 county Democratic chairmen.

Rock was the only one of the four principal candidates to say he would drop out of the primary race if he was not endorsed. But by the time he said so, the election had been virtually assured. He won the committee's backing with 14 votes to Simon's five and Burris' three.

Despite a large margin, Rock retains some handicaps. Simon stressed that Simon would be the party's strongest candidate against Sen. Percy.

Bruce Cook, this (21st) Congressional district's state central committee, supported Simon and said Rock runs fast in surveys pitting the Democrats with each other and with Percy.

Rock has received the backing of State Treasurer James Donevaid. The latter says Rock has shown "ability to formulate compromise among uncompromising positions."

Rock is credited with considerable political courage, including willingness on occasion to vote for tax hikes. He is known for his "snappish" or abrupt with citizens and fellow officials.

Simon remembers faces well and sometimes has been known to refer to nearly everyone in an audience by his or her first name. In contrast, Rock admits shyness on the campaign trail. "I'm reluctant to bother people when they're going about their business, whether in a dining place or at their jobs."

Rock, 46, has sometimes sided with the Republican administration in legislative matters. At the Capitol, he is described as intelligent, articulate and accessible—but sometimes "snappish" or abrupt with citizens and fellow officials.

Suburban Baptist to show 'The Living Word' film

"The Living Word," a new film produced by World Wide Pictures, will be presented by Suburban Baptist, 2500 St. Clair Ave., on Sunday, Feb. 19, at 7 p.m. The showing is free, and open to the public.

Featuring narration by Billy Graham and Cliff Barrows, the film weaves together scripture passages, great works of religious art, music, and some of the most stunning color footage ever filmed in the Holy Land.

Rich in visual beauty, and enhanced by a powerful, original musical score, The Living Word brings the pages of the Bible to life in a fresh new way.

The Rev. Phil Simcosky, pastor of Suburban Baptist, is extending an invitation to all to attend.

World Wide Pictures, the producer of The Living Word, is the film ministry of the Billy Graham organization. Among the company's other releases are the award-winning The Hiding Place, and the recent film, Joni, which stars Joni Eareckson, a quadriplegic, as herself.

Sisterhood attends Valentine luncheon

The Sisterhood of the Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church were served a Valentine luncheon in the church hall by hostesses, Mrs. Evelyn Thompson and Mrs. Millie Sherman, assisted by Mrs. Mary Hanfelder.

Valentine motifs were used through the hall and red hearts inscribed with Bible verses served as individual favors. As the group was seated they sang Happy Birthday to Mrs. Doris Brown, followed by the table prayer offered by Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson, president of the organization, opened the business session by leading the members in singing the Sisterhood theme song. Tentative plans were discussed to host a Schuck's dinner and the annual mother and daughter banquet. Members voted to send a love offering to the Youth Fellowship of the church, and cards were prepared for those listed as being ill.

A Valentine devotional lesson was presented by Mrs. Tenny Webb. Others present were Virginia Kessler, Opal and Mary Davis, Elsie Byrd, Madara Shaw, Fern San Souci, and Mayne Waggoner. The next meeting is set for Friday March 9, the president noted.

Evening Guild plans fund raising events

The February session of the Evening Guild of St. John United Church of Christ, was a "dinner out" meeting held in the banquet room of The Den.

Twenty-seven members and six guests attended including, Martha Bishoff, Thelma Jacobsmeier, Bernice Duckworth, Justine Walker, Sheryl Willard and Judy Crews. The latter three became members during the business segment.

A business discussion held after dinner was related to tickets that were distributed for the Schnucks Luncheon to be held on March 22. Bakeless bake sale letters were also given to each one present and the remainder of the members will be contacted later, it was noted.

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for election. Those nominated to serve for the forthcoming year are, Wilma Willard, president, Rose Marie Bauer, vice-president, Vera Sage, treasurer, and Dolores Gaines, secretary.

After the Least Coin offering was collected the meeting adjourned and the group enjoyed playing games.

Musician Phil Driscoll at Son-Life Fellowship

Phil Driscoll will perform at the Son-Life Fellowship, 1203 Vandalla in Collinsville, at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 19.

Driscoll was part of the rock and roll scene playing with Joe Cocker and Blood Sweat and Tears until he became a gospel musician. He is best known for his trumpet playing and writes many of his own songs and sings them as well.

He also plays the flugel horn, piano, and synthesizer and teaches the importance of music and its development, according to the announcement.

Modern Woodmen set bowling party

Modern Woodmen of America Camp 3791 will be hosting a family bowling party for members at 2:30 p.m. Feb. 25 at Granite City Bowl, 3701 Nameoki Road.

Cost is $1.50 for three games of bowling. Children under age 16 will be admitted at no charge, according to Robert Budnicki at 288-5845.

"ONE ACCORD," gospel singing group from St. Louis will perform at Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave., at both the 10:40 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services on Sunday, Feb. 19.

Calvary Baptist to host gospel singing family

"One Accord," a gospel singing family from St. Louis, will appear in concert at Calvary Baptist Church, 3000 Washington Ave. on Sunday, Feb. 19, at 10:40 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

During the 12 years they have been singing, the members of One Accord have shared their testimony and music in churches across the United States. Recently they returned from Africa, where they completed a singing tour of churches, concert halls and outdoor evangelistic crusades. They appeared on nationwide television in South Africa before an estimated audience of nine million people.

Through numerous television appearances on their own weekly cable television program and on both the PTL and CBN satellite networks, and through six albums, they have become known and enjoyed by gospel music fans throughout the nations.

The members include: John Smith, pianist and emcee; John's wife Sue, alto; Sue's brother Kirk, lead singer; Kirk's wife Lisa, soprano; the Smith's son Rick, bass; and their daughters, Jamie and Holly.

During their 1984 concert schedule, One Accord's concerts will include a multi-media presentation about their recent work in Africa. Free-will offerings received during the concerts are used to promote and support the group's mission work. The public is invited to attend this special praise service, according to church chairman.

Central Christian choir to present 'The Gathering'

Central Christian Church choir, 2020 Johnson Road, under the direction of Joe Hanson, will present the cantata entitled, "The Gathering" by Rex Medema, on Sunday Feb. 19, at 10:45 a.m.

Members of the choir include, Laura Aerne, Lois Bilibrey, Mildred and Warren Collins, Nancy Connolly, Beth and Nancy Dunn, Margie and Mike Graves, Madge Hanson, Loretta Hurocy, Myra Parrish, Beth Spengler, Helen Stumpe, Jim and Margaret Turner.

The musical will be followed by a covered dish dinner and Mrs. Peggy Gibbons will be in charge of a program displaying photos of various events throughout the history of the church.

At the conclusion of the dinner hour and program many of the members and friends will leave to attend a Mission Cluster at Hillcrest Christian Church in Belleville.

The public is invited to share the cantata and social hour, according to the Rev. Dennis Rutledge, host pastor.

Engineering open house is set

The School of Engineering at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will conduct an open house, Friday, Feb. 24, in the science building, in observance of National Engineering Week. A variety of displays and projects in electrical, civil and industrial engineering and construction, built by students, will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

It is an easy way for prospective students to see what engineering has to offer and the role it plays in society, said Craig Eversmann, a senior in industrial engineering and a member of the Open House Committee.

OPEN HOUSE visitors can see a Van de Graaf generator that is guaranteed to make their hair stand on end, view the latest in microcomputers and processors, survey the land with the same type of equipment George Washington used or play a tune that imitates a bird's chirp or a whale's song with a digital circuit.

The civil engineering students will have models of the best in road and bridge design, including the award-winning balsa bridge model that was judged the strongest and most aesthetically pleasing. Last year's winner held three and one-half pounds. Construction students will display 3-D models of both a Shell Oil refinery and a futuristic plant.

In the environmental labs, models will show visitors what happens to structures built on ground that holds too much water, how to survive in quicksand or how to use the force of the ocean's waves instead of combating it.

COMPUTER BUFFS will have a choice of games, including Star Wars, that can be accompanied by a musical theme produced by a programmed microprocessor. A laser light show will be presented each hour in the auditorium. Between the laser shows, films related to the fields of engineering will be shown. One film shows how wind and the environment destroyed the Tacoma bridge. Another film examines the reason for the Hyatt Regency Hotel disaster that happened in Kansas City, three years ago. Also, General Motors has furnished a film showing how robotics are used to assemble automobiles.

Belleville Area College

FINANCIAL PLANNING expert Wendy Dietrich will speak to the Women's Divorce Support Group at Belleville Area College at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 23. The support group is an informal opportunity for women who are divorced, separated or contemplating divorce to help each other.

The group will meet in the President's Conference Room at the main campus, 2500 Carlyle Road, Belleville. All are welcome. For information, interested persons may call the BAC Special Services Center at 1-235-2700, extension 368.

SIU at Edwardsville

A VIDEO of the award-winning Broadway musical, "Eubie," will be shown Feb. 20 to 24 at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The play is a tribute to Eubie Blake and his career, which lasted 80 years. The program features the original Broadway cast and is scheduled as part of SIUE's observance of Black History Month.

Showtimes are Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 12:30 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday at 10:30 a.m. In the video lounge on the second floor of the University Center.

JACK SCHWARTZ, field representative for the Social Security Administration in Alton, will speak at the Gerontology Research Colloquia Series, Tuesday, Feb. 21, at 6 p.m. in the International Room of the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Schwartz will address the general aspects of Social Security as it applies to retirement, disability, Medicare and survivor benefits. The Colloquia Series is sponsored by the SIUE Gerontology Program. For more information, interested persons may contact the gerontology office at 1-692-3454.

ROBERT ENGEBRETSON, professor of psychology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will discuss "Bystander Intervention" at the weekly Dialogue with Senior Citizens, Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Engebretson said the rape of a young girl in Forest Park while many people were present has again raised the issue of why people don't help.

The program will be in the Mississippi-Illinois Room of the University Center. Dialogue with Senior Citizens is a series of free programs sponsored by the SIUE Gerontology Program. For further information, interested persons may call 1-692-3454.

GRADUATE STUDENTS in the Gerontology Program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will discuss "Public Issues in Aging Policy" at the Gerontology Research Colloquia Series, Tuesday, Feb. 28, at SIUE. The program begins at 6 p.m. in Room 2407 in Building II. It is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

THE ST. LOUIS BLACK REPERTORY Company will perform Wednesday, Feb. 15, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. The group will present "Black Shadows, New Dreams" at noon in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center.

The free performance is sponsored by the Student Program Board (SPB) as part of SIUE's observance of Black History Month. For more information, interested persons may call the SPB at 1-692-3617.

THE UNITY ENSEMBLE THEATER production of "Morning, Noon and Night," previously scheduled for Feb. 16 to 20, has been cancelled. It will be presented June 14 to 17. Ralph Greene, Unity Ensemble director, said, "Because of severe weather, the pipes in the theater have burst. It's going to take some time to get things back in working order again."

In the meantime, the theater group is taking its recent production of "I've Got the Music in Me" on the road. Performances are scheduled for Pittsburgh State University, University City High School in St. Louis and Kansas State University. Unity Ensemble is part of the Katherine Dunham Center for the Performing Arts at the East St. Louis Center of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

THOMAS O'BRIEN, professor in the elementary and early childhood education department at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, will be the speaker at the weekly Dialogue with Senior Citizens, Wednesday, Feb. 15, at 1:30 p.m. The program on "Computers in Your Life" will be in the Dogwood-Maple Rooms on the second floor of the University Center at SIUE.

O'Brien, author of "Computer Programs for Educational Use in Schools and in the Home," will also offer the participants a hands-on demonstration on word-processing equipment. Dialogue with Senior Citizens is a series of free programs sponsored by the Gerontology Program of SIUE.

THREE STUDENTS from Granite City at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, have been admitted to the Dean's College, an undergraduate honors program at the university. Students selected for the Dean's College must have a 4.5 grade point average and be recommended by five classroom teachers.

Granite City students selected for the program include Michelle B. Meehan and Norma J. Medora, mass communications majors, and Elizabeth A. Morrison, a speech communication and mass communications major.

Other Area Colleges

Registration can also be accomplished on the Edwardsville campus. Information for Edwardsville campus registration may be obtained by contacting the Enrollment Center at 1-692-3866.

University housing increase approved

An increase in rental rates for university housing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville was approved at the SIUE Board of Trustees meeting on the Carbondale campus.

The basic increase will be $13 per month per single student, with a similar percentage increase for family housing, both effective Sept. 1. Currently, a single student in a two-bedroom, four-student unit pays $109 per month.

UNIVERSITY OFFICERS said one of the principal needs for additional revenue in Fiscal Year 1985 is to meet projected energy cost increases. For the year beginning July 1, 1984, the university is estimating utility cost increases of approximately $54,000.

University housing also anticipates the loss of $84,000 in retained tuition funds and cost increases in personal services and other support lines of $28,000 in FY-85. University officers said the rate of cost increase, where controllable by the university, have been held to the lowest feasible levels. Total personal services will increase one percent, building maintenance costs will increase five percent, and all other expenses, as a group, are projected to increase five percent.

Two years ago, the Tower Lake Residents Association recommended that the housing working capital balance show a positive balance of $140,000 by Fiscal Year 1986. Increased receipts next year are expected to improve working capital by $56,500 in FY-85. The projected balance in fund at the end of FY-84 is a negative $142,275.

SEVERAL COST reduction measures have been implemented, including energy conservation actioned to increase five percent.

Benefit dance helps SIUE rape center

A MINI-JAM DANCE and concert for the benefit of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center will be at Goog's To-Sha Inn in Piermont, Ill., on Saturday, Feb. 18, from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

The concert will feature a new group, "Country Thunder," who play a blend of country rock and '80s music. Members of the group are Joe Gillespie on rhythm guitar, Joe Gillespie III on lead guitar and vocals and Kurt Barker on drums and vocals. Also with the group for the performance will be Jim McCaw on bass guitar. Admission of $5 includes dancing, refreshments and attendance prizes.

PROCEEDS WILL benefit the Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center located on the campus of SIUE. Its staff of counselors and volunteers provides services to child and adult victims of rape, sexual abuse and incest. Services include counseling, victim advocacy and public education. A 24-hour hotline is provided for emergencies 1-692-2197.

The center serves residents of Madison and St. Clair counties in Illinois and some parts of St. Louis.

Marching band procedures taught

The University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign will offer a course in music, Marching Band Procedures (Music 340), in Collinsville during the spring semester. This course covers a detailed consideration of principles and procedures for preparing a marching band to participate in parades, ceremonies, and shows for sports events.

Classes meet on Mondays, 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., beginning February 20 to April 30, in the band room in the gym at Collinsville High School, 2291 S.

Morrison, Collinsville. The course will be taught by Gary E. Smith, Associate Director of the University of Illinois Bands. It carries two hours undergraduate credit or one-half graduate credit.

REGISTRATIONS will be accepted the first night of class only if space is available. For further information or to obtain a registration form, contact University of Illinois Regional Program Director Charles Evans, 415 E. Main St., Second Floor, Belleville, Ill. 62220, 1-235-3980.

We are proud to announce that T.K. Sinclair is eligible for the President Club... having sold over a MILLION DOLLARS of real estate in 1983.

I would like to thank all my friends and clients for providing the business to achieve this honor. Without all of you, I couldn't have done it. It is my hope that 1984 allows more people to make the moves in real estate that they desire and that I can be of help.

Dr. Koch reviews medical and hospital facilities in area

St. John's United Church of Christ was the scene of the February meeting of the Old Six Mile Historical Society.

Mrs. Marguerite Lox, chairman of the Acquisitions Committee, announced the donation of a large book of maps of Granite City, including Madison, Newport, and Venice, which was published in 1907. The book contains an additional index to August 1957. Included in this publication are photographs of buildings in existence at that time. The book was a gift of Steven Bristol, 3020 Nameoki Road, she said.

A bust of Abraham Lincoln which was used at McKinley High School from its opening in 1906 until the closing of the school, was also donated to the society. This gift was presented by Arthur Menendez, principal of Mitchell School.

A spring tour of the Streif (Brimbery) house was announced. No date has yet been set for the tour, the president noted.

The featured speaker for the evening was Dr. Felicia Koch, M.D., a practicing physician in Granite City for many years. She spoke about health care in the past and health care today in this community.

For over three-quarters of a century, St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, has been serving the area with quality health care. St. Elizabeth's employs over 1,100 people, and has 42 licensed acute care beds. In short, it's a busy place! It's hard to imagine just how close Granite City came to not having a hospital at all. It's an interesting story, and one that begins even before the hospital was constructed, because to examine the history of St. Elizabeth Hospital, it's necessary to look at the history of Granite City, as well," Dr. Koch explained.

In 1901, as the Fair was opening in St. Louis, industry was shaping Granite City. Factories which had sprung up around St. Louis spread eastward across the Mississippi to a fertile area of Illinois bottomland which was known only as "Six Mile Prairie," because the small settlement of cabins there was six miles from St. Louis.

Granite City's heritage was a bit different from most other towns. It was, in fact, the "Old Six Mile" created through the efforts of two brothers, William and Frederick Niedringhaus. They were the owners of what was, in the 1890s, the St. Louis Stamping Company, a prosperous kitchen utensil business. While vacationing in Germany, William Niedringhaus came across a metal shop producing pots and pans with a satin-like sheen, unlike anything available in the United States. Niedringhaus paid the shop owner $500 to show him the process, which involved ground granite, and returned to the United States to acquire a patent. Soon the Niedringhaus brothers had a booming business in what they called "Graniteware."

To produce graniteware, they built the Granite Iron Rolling Mill in St. Louis, not far from the St. Louis Stamping Co. But by 1890 demand for their product had grown so large the brothers had to look for a new place to expand their factories. Rather than add on to existing facilities in St. Louis, they decided to build a new plant in less-expensive Illinois. Six Mile Prairie was the place.

In 1894, after careful planning, workers arrived in the fields of "Old Six Mile," and an entire city was born. Factories, streets, and homes simultaneously rose out of what had been, only a few years earlier, farmland. When deciding on a name, the Niedringhaus brothers chose to pay homage to what had made them successful industrialists—graniteware. The result—Granite City.

Heavy industries were constructed in the new city, including Granite City Steel Co. and the St. Louis Industrial Park. Railroads crossed the area to bring supplies to the mills. An unfortunate reality of heavy industry at the turn of the century was, however, injuries. It wasn't long before a hospital was needed for Granite City.

Ralph Niedringhaus, grandnephew of William Niedringhaus, was one of the prime movers on the hospital project. In 1904, construction began on what was to become "Granite City Hospital." When the hospital was finished in 1905, it opened under the auspices of the Lutheran Hospital Association.

The Rev. A. H. Almstedt was named president of the hospital, which included a nursing school. Dr. Robert Binney, for whom the present Binney Wing was named, was the first doctor to practice at Granite City Hospital, performing the first operation and delivering the first baby.

Although hopes were high for quality health care in Granite City, it didn't take long before problems appeared. Most of the factory workers were poor, so much of the town began on what was called "Granite City Hospital" was charitable—a noble tradition, perhaps, but unfortunately one that couldn't last forever. Financial difficulties mounted quickly so quickly that the hospital faced bankruptcy in 1910 and was forced to close, only five years after opening.

It seemed as though dreams of a hospital in Granite City vanished almost overnight. Some years earlier, in 1896, a Catholic priest, the Rev. Peter Kaenders, had opened a small hospital in Venice. A man of boundless energy, Rev. Kaenders had moved to St. Mark's Church in Venice. When heavy industry came to the Metro-East area, many residents left Venice and moved to Granite City. Rev. Kaenders' hospital, which he had named St. Elizabeth's, had to close, but he didn't lose his desire to found a hospital. When Granite City Hospital closed in 1910, he saw a golden opportunity to reopen it and give his own dream of a Catholic hospital another chance.

It took Rev. Kaenders a year to raise enough money to buy the hospital in May 1911. The following October it was rededicated and renamed St. Elizabeth Hospital. For the next 10 years, until 1921, Rev. Kaenders saw St. Elizabeth alter its destiny over years of relative prosperity and abject poverty.

At Rev. Kaenders' invitation, the missionary sisters, Servants of the Holy Ghost, came from Techy, Ill., near Chicago, to be the first employees of St. Elizabeth's Hospital. With their help the priest was able to get the hospital going again, but difficulties cropped up shortly after the sisters arrived. Kaenders, a hard-working, dedicated man, was not the easiest person to get along with. He became involved with hospital operations to the point of supervising the care of individual patients—a practice that didn't go over well with the nurses—and the nuns.

After struggling with Rev. Kaenders' well-intentioned, but sometimes domineering supervision, the Sisters of the Holy Ghost left in 1912, less than a year after they arrived. Their departure plunged the hospital into a crisis once again, but with secular help the priest kept it open. Labor unrest in the factories fueled the hospital's problems as strikes closed the plants in 1913 and 1914. Card parties, rallies, and many other forms of fund raising were used during those lean years.

Rev. Kaenders received encouragement in 1914, as a new congregation of nuns, the Sisters of St. Francis, had agreed to journey from Springfield, Ill., to help keep the hospital open. After they arrived many of the problems which had mounted after the Sisters of the Holy Ghost left, were immediately solved. The Sisters of St. Francis were even planning to buy the hospital from Rev. Kaenders, but unfortunately difficulties with the nuns' will caused enough friction for the sisters to leave in July 1918.

Again the priest staffed the hospital with secular help. Unfortunately, the employees that he could afford to hire were, at best, unreliable and conditions at the hospital got worse.

Things got slightly better during World War I, as peak demand for steel drove the value of Granite City and its goods to nearly $18,000,000 in 1918. As prosperity in the face of war came to Granite City, it also came to St. Elizabeth Hospital, although the hospital was still far from being on stable ground, medically and financially.

Rev. Kaenders fought almost singlehandedly to keep the hospital open until 1921, when the Sisters of Divine Providence came to Granite City after learning of St. Elizabeth's distress. 1921 was barely three days old when they arrived to make another attempt to get the hospital on its feet.

The Sisters of Divine Providence bought the hospital from Rev. Kaenders in 1921, before actually arriving in the city. They had a massive cleanup job waiting for them when they got here, as well as an incredible lack of equipment and materials. There weren't any linens, no X-ray machine, and lots of unpaid bills. The nuns fed the poor, did the laundry, and cleaned the floors.

By scrimping, saving, and doing a lot of work themselves instead of hiring others, the nuns slowly began to turn things around. By the end of 1921 almost 600 patients had been admitted, but it wasn't until October 1922 that the hospital was in the black, with a positive balance of $187. Even after that the hospital's finances continued to be rocky until 1923.

In September of 1921, 10 months after the nuns came to Granite City, Rev. Kaenders died. In March he had retired as pastor of St. Mark's and took up permanent residence in the hospital. Age and the years of struggle to keep the hospital open caught up with him. He had the satisfaction, at least, of knowing that St. Elizabeth's Hospital was going to make it.

"Since then the Hospital has grown, with new additions in 1931, 1934, 1938, and 1969. St. Elizabeth Medical Center is still growing, but buildings aren't all that has expanded—community services have also, to the extent that the term "hospital" doesn't adequately describe all the community-oriented programs the center is involved in. Community activities include immunization clinics, pre-natal rehabilitation program. That's why in 1979 our Diamond Jubilee year, we changed our name to St. Elizabeth Medical Center," Dr. Koch said. Granite City Hospital, St. Elizabeth Hospital, and St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Different names perhaps, but a common goal—quality health care for the area. After 75 years the future is bright.

Dr. Koch went on to describe some of her personal experiences as a physician in Granite City. Born in Chicago, she attended medical school there, graduating in 1935. She completed her internship in 1938, and after practicing in the Chicago area for a year she came to Granite City. Her first office was in the Darner Building. Office calls cost $2 and in her first month of practice she collected $16.

Besides Dr. Binney, Doctors Dale, Danner, Everett, Phillips, Hamm, Schermer, Arnovitz, Harlan, Reus, Noggle, and Smith were also practicing locally. Dr. Koch applied for staff membership at the hospital and was accepted. "The boys" were not too receptive of a woman doctor. At first they ignored her, leaving her to drink her coffee at a separate table. "Before long we were friends," she added.

Sisters Clela, Petronella, Euphrosene, and Theodore were very important to the running of the hospital. Sister Theodore is retired but still lives at the hospital.

"We made house calls in those days, and my husband, a Granite City native was still in school. When a call came for a house call I had to ask directions. Strategic landmarks were usually the location of taverns. On one house call a mother called. Her baby was screaming. After receiving directions (turn left at the tavern then right at the next) I arrived at the house. A pot-bellied stove in the center of the room, with a roaring fire. The baby's crib was sitting by the stove with the baby screaming. It was wrapped in a woolen suit and wrapped in blankets. I stripped the baby and pulled the crib away from the stove. The baby stopped crying," Dr. Koch explained.

"We treated pneumonia and meningitis with aspirin. There were no antibiotics. Amazingly some of those patients survived," the guest speaker said.

There were no specialists in Granite City in those days. The physicians were general practitioners. Difficult patients were sent to specialists in St. Louis. Patients often traveled by street car.

There was no public health department—there still isn't. The only public health care in those days was provided by Dr. Huggins, a veterinarian who tested cows for T.B.

The hospital had 125 beds then. Surgery was located on the fourth floor. There were two operating rooms and a small operating room. Sister Clela ruled the operating room with an iron hand. There was no air conditioning. Window screens failed to keep out all the flies and the staff battled flies in hot weather. In those days the doctors had to pay for the suture they used. Sister Clela watched carefully and the doctors used suture material with care.

Gas and ether were used for anesthesia. Now the most modern methods of anesthesia are used. Now there are seven operating rooms equipped with E.K.G. monitoring equipment. In 1938 there was no recovery room. Now there is a 10 bed recovery room with constant monitoring and supervision.

In 1938 the O.B. department was located on the third floor. There were no air conditioning and screens were used to keep the flies away. Doctors charged $25 for a delivery. There was one labor room. Now there are five private labor rooms, two delivery rooms, and a birthing room will soon be added. Then the father was kept in the Father's Room. Now the family can view the birth.

"We did a lot of home deliveries then," said Dr. Koch. "I arrived at a home 12 or 3:30 one day for a delivery. Several small children were running around. A W.P.A. worker was there, helping with the children. At four o'clock she took off her apron and announced that she had to leave. It was the W.P.A. rule. I somehow managed to chase after the children and deliver the new baby. I liked home deliveries. There was a closeness then that you can't get in the hospital.

Back then there was no Intensive Care unit. Critical patients were cared for on the floor. Oxygen tanks were wheeled in and placed beside the beds. Now we have a 12 bed I.C.U. and a pulmonary unit and cardiac rehab unit are located in the Binney wing.

St. Elizabeth's Medical Center now has 11 internists, five pediatricians, three oncologists, eight family practitioners, two gastroenterologists, one pulmonary specialist, and urologists to name just a few.

In 1938 the Emergency Room was just a cubbyhole. Now the E.R. is equipped with communication with incoming ambulances and has physicians on duty 24 hours a day.

Dr. Koch reminisced about the day John F. Kennedy was born. She was in the E.R. scrubbing to suture a child's scalp. A nurse came by and told her the news. The tears fell freely as she could not wipe her eyes. When she went in to suture the child's scalp, he asked "doctor, why are you crying?"

The X-ray department in 1938 was run by Dr. Schnobelen, an adiolgist. He was assisted by Sister Pachomia and the department contained one or two X-ray machines. Now there are eight radiologists, a C.T. scanner, nuclear medicine, ultrasound, and cobalt treatments. There are seven X-ray rooms in constant use. Several years ago, around 1940, Dr. Koch was responsible for purchasing individual gifts for each of the employees and assistants at Christmas, using money from the medical staff treasury. With the increased size of the staff this is no longer possible. The medical staff also bought stethoscopes for the floors and paid for bed lights and a call system.

In 1962 the Immunization Clinic was started. In its 20 years, 34,120 children have been seen.

Hospice began in 1979. Dr. Koch was a charter member of its board, it was noted.

In those early days the medical staff served as the teaching staff for the school of nursing. Dr. Koch taught pediatrics to the students. Now most nurses are university educated.

Many diseases which once required long hospitalizations are now treated on an out-patient basis. T.B. hospitals were once filled to capacity. T.B. medication closed the hospitals and T.B. clinic was established. Many mental patients are treated on an out-patient basis, also.

Once pneumonia was treated with aspirin, Syphilis was treated with intramuscular injections of Bismuth and Arsenicals. Now we have penicillin and a whole battery of new drugs.

The first coffee shop at the hospital was opened in 1979 under the direction of the Volunteer Ladies Auxiliary. Lt. Governor Paul Simon was present for the ribbon cutting.

Dr. Koch ended her presentation by saying, "It's been wonderful to study and stay with new developments and I hope I can stay with it."

The next meeting of the society will be on March 5 at the St. John's United Church of Christ. The speaker will be Al Barnes who will speak about history of the Granite City Park District. The public is invited.

GC MAN ARRESTED ON TWO ACTIVE WARRANTS

GUY W. Carroll, 22, of 2732 National Ave., was arrested at a residence in the 2600 block of Hodges Avenue during the weekend on an active warrant alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of driving with a suspended license, filed by the Madison County Sheriff's Office, and a warrant issued by the Maryville Police Department.

Carroll was released to the custody of a sheriff's deputy 45 minutes after the arrest and was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

SERVE ACTIVE WARRANT

An active warrant alleging criminal trespass to land was served at 10:20 a.m. Tuesday at the City Hall in Granite City on Daniel R. Towery, 42, of 2929 Pershing Blvd. He appeared immediately before a judge and was released, pending a sentencing hearing scheduled Friday.
